indications Are That Haywood's Quota Of $41,800 For June Will Be Reached.

With a grim determination, Haywood has gotten down to work to reach the June goal of $41,800 in bonds.

Through last night, the First National Bank and the Waynesville post office had sold almost $10,000 in the nine business days.

Reports from Canton had not been received, but all indications are that Haywood will exceed the quota set by the federal treasury.

Charlie Ray, chairman for the Haywood County War Savings Campaign, was gratified at the response of the community, following the purchase of more than $60,000 last month.

Mr. Ray issued the following appeal to all committee members of the county yesterday: "All pledges obtained by committee workers for War Savings Bonds and stamps should return books to their respective chairman."

The chairman in turn are requested to turn their reports, complete for their committee, into me as instructed to forward reports into the state chairman in the immediate future.

Your county chairman thanks you and every worker for your part in the co-operation received has been remarkably fine.

Haywood county has made a start, having surpassed her quota for May. We must do likewise for June and each month thereafter. As reported in The Mountaineer last week, our quota for June is $41,800. Our soldiers and sailors are doing their part. We must do ours."

145 Fur Animals Eat A Horse Every 3 Weeks

Ned Moody has thriving fur farm on Soco Gap Road; Has Four Kinds of Animals.

One horse, ground up fine-bones and all.

A sure enough horse, and this is no joke.

It is just the usual order from Ned Moody, as he prepares to feed his 145 fur bearing animals for the next three weeks. The husky little rascals are now eating a third of a horse a week, and thrive on it.

Mr. Moody is operating the only fur farm in Haywood. He has established at Moody Farm, on the Soco Gap road, and right now he is busy getting pelts ready for the June auction sale in New York.

Mink makes up the larger part of his animals. There are now 108 on the farm. Each in a separate cage, about two feet square and six feet long. Mink, as you probably know, have very little love for each other, and have to be kept separate. Otherwise they would get into each other's fur, and that would mean a loss to the owner.

Mink grow fast, and when their eyes open at five or six weeks, they are half grown. At six months they have reached their maturity.

Citizens Average Over 11 Pounds Of Canning Sugar

An average of 11 and one-half pounds plus a fraction of a pound of sugar for canning purposes was granted citizens in the Waynesville area during the two-day canning sugar registration held last week, according to Miss Winnie Kirkpatrick, clerk of the rationing board.

A total of 197,000 pounds was allotted in the area, which was based on the number of cans of fruit and berries put up last year. This total represents 3,341 units or families, which in turn represents around 17,000 individual signers for war rationing cards.

This average of 11 and one-half pounds and a fraction over would allow for individual consumption dozens of jars of fruits and berries, a nice number of glasses of jelly, or a parcel of one's pet preserves.

The Waynesville area of the rationing board includes the following communities: Waynesville, Saunook, Allen's Creek, Hazelwood, Maggie, Dellwood, Lake Junaluska, Rock Hill, Pines Creek, Crabtree, Mt. Sterling, Cataloochee and the Pigeon street colored section.

While the exact figures of the Canton area were not available, it was learned that they ran the Waynesville area a close second, indicative that the sweet tooth of the Haywood county citizens will not suffer even in face of sugar rationing.
