

Dr. Clarence Poe Urges Citizens To Vote "Yes"

Dr. Clarence Poe, Editor of the Progressive Farmer, has released a statement commending all groups who joined in the Broughton compromise and urging united support of the proposed educational amendment in this election. This statement follows:

"I think every citizen has a right to be a little prouder of North Carolina because of what happened between last Saturday morning and Sunday evening when Governor Broughton gave out his statement accompanied by the statement of various organizations and agencies regarding the proposed educational amendment.

"It was of course to be expected that Dr. Clyde Erwin as state superintendent would favor such a plan and he of course gave it unqualified support. Two other North Carolina leaders with whom I had the privilege of being associated in these conferences not only went beyond the bounds of mere official duty in order to help, but also gave the state a superb demonstration of what can be accomplished by men of fairness and good will when they simply appeal to the fairness and good will of other North Carolinians. It would have been very easy for Governor Broughton to have said, 'This is the way the legislature worded this amendment and this is the way it was worded when my party platform endorsed it, and even though it was most seriously misunderstood and misrepresented, I can and will do nothing. The technicalities of my position as governor and party leader require me to go on through it with no concessions to anybody.' Instead the governor courageously put a high moral principle above technicalities and without waiting for the aid or consent of anybody else, took his stand on that principle. Similarly Dr. Frank Graham, just back from Washington Saturday morning from another week of exhausting war service, might easily have said: 'My job is to head the state's program of higher education—and there is no reason why I should wear myself out trying to bring together men and women now arrayed in two hostile camps over the proposed public school amendment.' Instead he challenged our men and women to respond with fairness and good will to his own and the governor's fairness and good will—and in a few hours a situation which had threatened to divide and embitter the educational forces of this state for years had been solved.

"Perhaps I should add that this problem was solved also on the basis that in a contest like this, one group of North Carolinians can trust the honor and good faith of opposing groups. We know that Governor Broughton and the leaders who have pledged their support to his corrective amendment will carry out without quibbling or evasion the promise they have made in order to secure a united front in behalf of educational progress in this state.

"Most earnestly, therefore, do I now appeal to every North Carolina voter to vote a positive 'yes' on the educational amendment next Tuesday."

Cookies for Boys in Camps

By BETSY NEWMAN

WE OF THE "Apron Brigade," as we have been called, certainly have our hands full what with keeping the family at home well fed with nourishing, vitamin-rich foods, writing to the boys at camp and occasionally sending them some goodies from home. You can buy nice little cookies in attractive boxes to send to them for a change. If the sugar ration won't permit using much sugar for these foods, try these honey recipes. They are good for the children's and hubby's lunch box too.

Jolly Book
Box of Stationery and Postcards with Stamps
Honey-Fruit Candy
Honey-Fruit Slices
Chocolate Chip Cookies
Hermits

Honey-Fruit Candy
1/2 c. dried prunes
1/2 c. dried apricots
1/2 c. dried figs
1/2 c. dates
1/2 c. raisins
1/2 c. honey

Let dried fruits stand in boiling water for 5 minutes, then run through a food chopper, using fine knife. Add honey. Butter hands and shape into balls. roll in chopped nuts or coconut, or coat with confectioners' chocolate. Nuts may be added and other dried fruits like peaches and pairs used.

Honey-Fruit Slices
1/2 c. shredded coconut
1/2 c. seedless raisins
1/2 lb. dates, stoned
2 c. bran
3 to 4 tbsps. honey

Run coconut, raisins, dates through food chopper; add melted chocolate, all bran and honey. Form into roll and chill, then cut in slices with sharp knife, and wrap in waxed paper.

Hermits
1/2 c. shortening
1 c. honey
1/2 c. brown sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 tbsps. milk
2 1/4 c. flour
1/2 c. nuts
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. allspice
1 c. seedless raisins
1 c. currants
1 c. dates

Chocolate Chip Cookies
1/2 c. butter or margarine
1/2 c. honey
1 egg
1 c. sifted flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 c. semi-sweet chocolate chips
1/2 c. nut meats chopped

Chocolate Chip Cookies
Cream butter and honey until light and fluffy; add egg and beat well. Sift flour, measure and sift twice with baking powder and salt. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture; then add vanilla and blend all well. Fold in chocolate chips and nuts. Chill and drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees F. for 12 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes, then take from sheet.

Letters To The Editor

VOTE FOR BOTH AMENDMENTS

To the Editor:— Believing I saw three serious dangers in the proposed Constitutional amendment for a new state board of education, I sent into nearly 130,000 North Carolina farm homes last week an editorial appeal to vote "No" on this amendment.

Now Governor J. M. Broughton and the state administration have promised that in case this amendment is adopted next week, they will admit and support a further constitutional amendment fully correcting and removing the three dangers which I feared. Under these circumstances, I earnestly urge all men and women to vote an emphatic "Yes" on this constitutional amendment next Tuesday and also for the one relating to Solicitorial Districts.

CLARENCE POE, Raleigh, N. C.

Editor The Mountaineer:— Your special edition on the scrap drive was a credit to your town and organization. It was interesting and indicated that a lot of work was done on it. You are to be congratulated on the speed with which you did the work, and the product produced.
