

Miss Maude White Becomes Bride Of Reverend Jarvis W. Teague

The marriage of Miss Maude White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. White, of Cove Creek, to the Reverend Jarvis W. Teague, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Teague, also of Cove Creek, was solemnized on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church of Waynesville. The Rev. H. G. Hammett, pastor, pronounced the vows, using the ring ceremony.

For the occasion the altar was banked with tall evergreens, with floor vases containing white gladioli on either side, and tall candelabra bearing lighted cathedral candles were placed at intervals.

Prior to the ceremony a program of music was rendered including the following numbers: "Living for Jesus," by Rev. and Mrs. Milton Harbin, accompanied by Mrs. Rufus Honeycutt; "The Rosary" and "An Old Irish Melody," sung by the Crabtree Glee club, accompanied by Mrs. Roger Pillard.

Mrs. H. G. Hammett, church organist, played Schubert's "Serenade," "Tramontani," by Schuman and "Indian Love Call," which was softly played during the taking of the vows. For the processional and recessional, Mrs. Hammett played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride and bridegroom entered the church together. Serving as ushers were: Rev. Milton Harbin, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The Bolero Is Back

Navy skirt and tangerine bolero.

By VERA WINSTON

BACK COMES the bolero to add its charms to the variety of suits designed for Spring and early Summer. This one is made to team up with a straight and slim navy blue wool skirt with an insert of woolen in a muted shade of tangerine that terminates in a bow at one side. The bolero is also of tangerine woolen and has three-quarter length sleeves with turn-back cuffs. It is worn with a white crepe shirtwaist blouse but it would look nice with a fluffy ruffles affair too.
