Mr. and Mrs. Abe Cope, of Waynesville, announce the birth of a son on May 20 at the Haywood County Hospital.

Three Justice Brothers Serving In Armed Forces

MRS. EARL JUSTICE, of Waynesville, has three sons in the service. They are: Private Hobert Justice; Seaman Second Class Alvin Justice, and Seaman Second Class Billy Justice.

Pvt. Justice entered the service on February 19, 1943, and was inducted at Fort Bragg, and from there sent to Camp Swift, Tex., for his basic training. He went on maneuvers in Louisiana and was stationed at Fort Leonard and Fort Meade, Md., prior to being sent overseas. Before he entered the service he was employed at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. His wife, the former Miss Lucy Kirkpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Kirkpatrick, of Clyde, R.F.D. 1, and small daughter, Brenda, are residing with his mother.

Seaman Alvin Justice entered the service on February 24, 1944, and was sent from Spartanburg to the Naval Air Base, Jacksonville, Fla., for his boot training. Prior to entering the service he was employed in Newport News. His wife, the former Miss Maise Mangino, of New York and young daughter, Barbara Jean, are residing here with his mother.

Billy Justice, who was inducted in the U. S. Navy in Raleigh was sent to Bainbridge, Md., for his boot training and is still stationed there. He also was employed in Newport News before entering the service.

Paul Encourages the Corinthians

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
 (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 8 is II Corinthians 4:1-5:21, the Golden Text being II Corinthians 8:9, "Ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might become rich.")

IN THIS lesson Paul writes to his friends in Corinth of his conception of his ministry, and what constitutes a real minister of the gospel of Christ.

Paul testifies that he received strength from his work. "Seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not," he writes. He suffered many discouragements, false accusations, physical harm and almost lost his life on more than one occasion, but his fervent feeling of love and thankfulness that he had been converted and accepted Christ, his earnest desire to turn as many as possible to the gospel, rose above the dangers of his life and all its discouragements.

A minister of the gospel should have "renounced the hidden things of dishonesty, not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully; but by manifestation of the truth commending themselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God."

Strive to Follow Jesus

Of all men on earth, those who accept posts in the Master's service, should strive to as nearly as possible live like Jesus. They do infinite harm when they forget their missions and think more of money, of their own selfish gain than of the message they are sworn to teach. "The god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them." "We preach not ourselves," says Paul, "but Christ Jesus." No true minister uses his pulpit to exalt himself, but to proclaim Jesus Christ.

Following the Master's example the minister "faints not," but "though the outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." How true this is many a good pastor can testify. There are times when such a man is worn out physically, even discouraged mentally and spiritually, but he finds strength to carry on. He is "renewed day by day." What he suffers from calumny, maybe, from the indifference of the world, in many other ways, he considers these but "light afflictions," as Paul says.

"We look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen; for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."

At the beginning of chapter 5 of the second epistle to Corinthians, Paul writes:

"For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

In this earthly tabernacle we "groan, being burdened," Paul writes, but in spite of all the burdens, and Paul himself had many, we are reminded, "we are always confident (for we walk by faith, not by sight). Wherefore we labour, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of Him."

"For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad."

Finally, Paul wrote, "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you, in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God."

being planted and we hope there will be many more than last year. At least try to meet the National goal of 25 percent increase.

North Carolina made a good record last year in the production of food crops. Mother Nature came along and said "I can help also" so she produced an abundance of rabbits in 1943 with a reserve supply for 1944. According to the complaints from Victory gardeners, rabbits have become a serious pest feeding on edible soybeans, snap beans, cabbage, and other vegetables.

Here is how some Victory gardeners have prevented the rabbits from eating their vegetables—these Victory gardeners sprayed the vegetable plants with a mixture of alum, sweet milk and water. A gallon of this spray solution is prepared by adding a cupful of sweet milk to a gallon of water and then stir in one tablespoonful of alum. The solution is then strained and sprayed on the plants. They state that if one tablespoonful of alum does not repel the rabbits, three tablespoonful can be used.

Crayolite can be used for most leaf or foliage eating insects, such as the bean beetle, flea beetles, cantaloupe and cucumber beetles, and cabbage worms. Nicotin sulphate used in a spray or dusted is recommended for the control of aphids which are sucking insects causing the leaves of the plant to become curled and distorted. Many leafy spot diseases such as those infecting potato and tomato leaves known as Early Blight can be controlled by spraying with yellow cuprous oxide (1 level tablespoonful to 2 gallons of water) or dust with cupro-cide dust. If this is not available, Bordeaux mixture can be used.

A mountain woman of Ashe County reported that she had sprayed her tomatoes at weekly intervals last year with cuprous oxide and it was the first time in several years that she had not been able to keep the diseases from destroying the plants or rotting the fruit.

They were the darlings of their social group and got a long write-up when they got married. On the train during the honeymoon trip, the conductor came around for the tickets and the bridegroom wanted to conceal the fact that he was newly married. So he off-handedly gave the long strip of paper to the conductor.

The conductor looked it over. Then in a rather loud voice he said:

Conductor—Friends, this is an interesting account of your marriage, but won't you please let me have the tickets now?

Pests and Rabbits Can Be Controlled In Every Victory Garden, Says Niswonger

By H. R. NISWONGER
 N. C. State College

The United States Department of Agriculture and other agencies and industries have put out many "slogans" relating to the Victory Garden. Here are a few of them. "Grow Vegetables for Vitamins and Victory;" "Grow the Big 3—tomatoes, greens, and yellow vegetables;" "Plant with a plan;" "Garden with a grin;" "Have a busy garden;" "Keep them growing 'til it's snowing;" and "Grow our own Victuals."

During the past three weeks, there has been increased activity in the preparation of the soil and the planting of Victory gardens because soil and weather conditions have been most favorable. Seedmen became very much discouraged with the sale of garden seeds during the month of March but since the first of May they have reported a large increase in sales of all seeds and garden fertilizer. This indicates that Victory gardens are

VOTE FOR RALPH McDONALD SATURDAY MAY 27TH

Christian people who are interested in the cause of temperance and sobriety, heed the advice of great Christian leaders:

Robert N. Simms, of Raleigh, for three years president of the Baptist State Convention, and founder of the first Baraca Class in the South, and its teacher for more than 40 years, says

"I like the fine fitness of the man for the office of Governor. McDonald is safe, sane and sober."

Charles G. Rose, of Fayetteville, former Moderator of the General Assembly in the Presbyterian Church of the United States, former State Moderator, President of the North Carolina Bar Association, etc., says

"Ralph McDonald is a high toned sober Christian gentleman. He will keep his pledge to the people."

Hon. J. Frank Spruill, former Solicitor of the Twelfth Judicial District, prominent Methodist layman, Superintendent of his Sunday School in his home city of Lexington, says

"Ralph McDonald is a safe, sober, Christian gentleman and leader. He regards his platform as a sacred pledge. The good people of this State can well afford to put their trust in him."

We can't go wrong if we follow the leadership of Ralph McDonald.
