

SNAP SHOTS

By FRANCES FRAZIER Staff Writer

the divine right granted every one of us, each and every one of us, given the inalienable right of three possessions to call upon each of these possessions. And on each of these possessions we should plant two signs. One reading, "NO TRESPASSING" and the other, "I WILL NOT TRESPASS." As long as we strictly adhere to these signs, we will be good citizens and good neighbors. The minute we step over the line, we immediately become public nuisances. In our first possession, and the one that is most valuable, is known as OUR PRIVATE LIVES. This is property upon which no one should encroach. But alas! How little attention is paid to that sign, "NO TRESPASSING." Each person seems to think he is entitled to put in his little two-bits in telling the other chap how to run his private affairs. And nearly every time, it develops that the interest does not lie in being a helper for the good of the person involved but, rather, the suggestion is given so that it may back-fire and give some assistance to the donor. Whenever you find some un-requested advice landed on your door-step, peer under the basket holding it and see if there isn't a hidden string attached.

This property of yours is your own just as long as you obey the other sign-post, "I WILL NOT TRESPASS." When you ignore that sign and push your private affairs through the back fence of your neighbor and play havoc with his nicely prepared garden, you have become a menace.

Your second possession is RELIGION. That is a treasure that you should guard with your life

Rev. Joe Daniel To Preach Here Over Week-End

Rev. Joe Daniel will preach at the Holiness Mission on Saturday and Sunday nights. Mr. and Mrs. Taft Crawford, of Canton, will be in charge of the music. A special invitation is extended to the public. Rev. Daniel will also preach at Cove Creek Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Holiness church.

and treat it with the greatest respect, but keep it entirely within the realms of your own conscience. Both of those signs should rise majestically on this property.

Every one is entitled to select the road he wishes to travel and constructive conversation is always a wise guide on life's roadway. Criticism, ridicule and blasphemous details are stumbling blocks that should be ignored or walked around.

Then comes the third possession, and the one that causes more friendships being broken into small fragments than any other thing in every day life. It is known as POLITICS. It's a wonderful possession when property owned, but what a deadly weapon it can be. This possession is the only one that can transfigure and transgress its owner in the twinkling of an eye, and the one possession that almost tares up by the roots both signposts so carefully planted on all three possessions.

Let's take the greatest care of our precious possessions, keep them carefully fenced and in good repair, allowing no broken pickets that may allow the straying of our pet theories over on our neighbor's property. They may have a few theories of their own that won't get along with ours, and then we are in for a feud.
