

DAR Chapter Has Memorial Service For Haywood Men

The May meeting of the Dorcas Bell Love Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held on Friday afternoon in the Sunday school rooms of the Presbyterian Church with Mrs. S. H. Bushnell, regent as hostess.

The program was in the nature of a memorial to the Haywood County men in the service who have been reported killed and missing in action, with Mrs. T. Lenoir Gwyn in charge. She gave a brief sketch of each of the 38 men at the close of which candles were lighted for each man by Jimmy Swift, young son of Capt. and Mrs. W. F. Swift and Linda Sloan, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sloan. This was followed by a solo, "Crossing the Bar," sung by Mrs. Fred Calhoun, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. W. L. Matney.

During the business session, Mrs. R. N. Barber gave an interesting account of the Continental Congress of the DAR which was held recently in New York. Mrs. Barber was the only member from the local chapter attending.

The regent stated that Congress had passed the Bolton bill, which the DAR had sponsored.

Special guests of the afternoon were: Mrs. C. H. Collins, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mrs. Marcus Sayner, of Washington, D. C. During the social hour following adjournment, the hostess was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ben Sloan and Mrs. Carl Hill in serving.

Two Sets Of Tate Brothers In Service

In a recent letter from L. M. Tate, of Blowing Rock, formerly of Haywood county, he lists two sets of Tate brothers now in service, all formerly of this section: Pfc. William M. Tate, U. S. Air Forces, now somewhere in England and his brother, Seaman Lloyd P. Tate, USNR, stationed at Naval Air Station Banana River, Fla., both his own sons; and A. S. Jennie M. Tate, stationed at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., and Seaman Jule W. Tate, Jr., now in North Africa, both sons of the late J. W. and Fanny Pearl James Tate, of Haywood.

want to be able to look everyone here straight in the eye and know that whatever I say has been in conformance with the facts as far as we know them, and on any promises that are made, every effort within our control must be made to see that they are fulfilled.

"What do we mean by free enterprise being on trial, and what is the problem connected with post war planning? After the last war, we had no plans made before hand. As a consequence, we went through chaotic conditions, resulting in the depression of 1920 and 1921, due to inventory losses, over-expansion of credit, etc. The problem is as follows:

"In 1940, 46,000,000 people were gainfully employed in the United States, less than 600,000 of whom were serving in the armed forces. There were from 6,000,000 to 9,000,000 competent workers unemployed. At the end of this last year, more than 61,000,000 people were employed in our working-fighting force, of which about one-third, or 20,000,000, will be directly engaged in the manufacture of war goods. If America had to provide employment for this number, the task would be, indeed, colossal. However, that is not likely. We can assume that several million women, along with over-age and under-age men, will return to their homes after the fighting stops so, according to the leading economists, this country will have to provide jobs with a normal work-week to have a satisfactory level of employment for from 55,000,000 to 58,000,000. Approximately 2,000,000 will be in the armed forces. The Government normally employs 4,000,000.

"There will be a public works program because of the holiday which we have had on highway building and maintenance. There will be a huge airport construction program probably, but if all these we undertake, it could not provide employment for more than 3,000,000 additional men. This means from 45,000,000 to 49,000,000 people will be looking to industry, commerce, agriculture and the professions for jobs.

"After the war started, in order for us to participate to the fullest extent in the war effort, we took on prime contracts involving essential war supplies, such as the manufacture of five and seven-man life rafts, pontons and oxygen hose. This last product, which we had developed over a period of a year, is used on airplanes where they travel above 18,000 feet, which is where a great deal of the aerial combat takes place, especially in Europe. We are by far the largest manufacturer of this particular type of hose, and have millions of feet on order.

"Our problem of planning is the same as yours—how to provide jobs for the manufacture of civilian products to replace these that are on a war-time basis. The question of what peace-time products to manufacture brings up where is your market, your geographical location, transportation facilities, labor supply, etc.

"In addition, and this is of the greatest importance, is the goodwill of the community toward your operations. "As I stated, this plant was built here on a solid foundation. Ready availability of the market was determined, the products performed a service in the textile industry, and this is a good example of how the manufacture of products are planned and determined.

"We do not believe that any industrial operation can be any bigger than the community. A manufacturing plant in any community, and particularly in this one, is a community affair, and, therefore, as to how large this plant will grow, or what size it will eventual-

13-Point Community Program Outlined By Garrett For C. Of C.

Noble Garrett, president of the Chamber of Commerce, outlined a 13-point program for the organization this year which included: the year-round operation of an office; maintenance of an automobile license bureau in the office; cooperation with the state department of conservation in the advertising of Haywood county and Western North Carolina.

An independent advertising program of Waynesville, Lake Junaluska and Hazelwood; to work as an organization to continue the service to hotels, boarding houses and guest homes; to cooperate with industrial groups and others in arranging a Labor Day celebration; to cooperate with the Community ly, be, is one of mutual cooperation between the community and the plant.

"We located our plant here, although we had looked over a number of other locations, and particularly those at Hendersonville, the other side of Asheville. We chose this location because we felt with the few of your community leaders—Mr. Woody, "Pop" Prevost, the Massie's, the Ray's and others too numerous to mention, we had that essential quality of goodwill of the community. We feel that we have had it in the past, and are enjoying it now, but new sets of conditions will arise, which will call for a still greater effort on the part of the community in the form of goodwill as time goes along, and we are sure that as in the past, we can count on it. It is not enough just to have a passive goodwill, but at times, it must express itself stronger in the close cooperation that is so essential to success. As your friend and neighbor, we all have the community's interest at heart, and since it is so interwoven with your industrial operations, we feel confident that as problems arise, they will be worked out for the benefit of all in Haywood County.

"I have told your Rotary Club and leading members of the community in times past that we wanted to think of this plant as a place where your sons and daughters can find employment and continue to live in this wonderful mountain community with its great natural advantages. We would like to see Haywood County become a model for others to follow.

"I want to thank you for your past goodwill and cooperation, and look forward to going down the road together to those things that make for success."

During his talk, Mr. Ainsworth, told numerous humorous stories, and pointed out that visitors to Western North Carolina annually leave 25 million dollars in a season. This figure is conservative, he stressed. "No county in this area is more strategically located to get a larger portion of this 25 million cash crop than is Haywood," he said.

"A large majority of the visitors to this section come to one of our numerous religious centers—they are a spiritual group, and that gives us a high type, excellent type of summer visitor.

"There is another group that we should cater to, and a group that would in no way interfere with our spiritual group. We have everything to offer the adventurer—trails for hiking and riding."

Mr. Ainsworth was highly complimentary of the orchestra, and said he knew his town would use it before long. Mr. Ainsworth was presented by Charlie Ray.

During the dinner, Hugh Massie

Council in a community-wide recreational program.

To cooperate with the county agent and various groups in promoting agriculture and dairying. He further proposed that the Chamber of Commerce cooperate with the state highway commission and other state and federal agencies in providing employment for returning service men; to maintain in the office a meeting place for tourists and transients; to work with officials of national forests and parks in the area; to work with established industries and to seek other industries for the area; in conjunction with other organizations to provide not less than 50 benches to be placed throughout the town for use by visitors.

Mrs. F. B. Smathers was honored with a luncheon party at the Lodge on Monday by her son and daughter-in-law, Judge and Mrs. Frank B. Smathers, of Miami and Waynesville. The occasion marked the 90th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Smathers, who is beloved by a large number of relatives and friends.

For nearly thirty years her daughter, Mrs. Adora Raine, has given Mrs. Smathers a birthday luncheon, but this year Judge and Mrs. Smathers were hosts, Mrs. Raine having been out of town until this week.

The table was covered with a handsome lace cloth and centered with an old fashioned bouquet of red roses, delphiniums, painted daisies and snapdragons in harmonizing shades. The places were marked by favors of small baskets made of silvered Australian pine cones filled with mints.

Mrs. Smathers, the former Miss Laura Howell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Howell, of the Jonathan Creek section of the county, is the widow of the late Dr. B. F. Smathers, who practiced dentistry here for many years. She is the mother of Dr. John H. Smathers, of Waynesville, Former U. S. Senator William H. Smathers, of Atlantic City, of Judge Frank Smathers, of Waynesville and Miami, Mrs. Adora Raine, Mrs. Jack Holtzclaw and Mrs. Joe Emerson Rose, all of Waynesville.

Mrs. Smathers was the recipient of many lovely gifts from friends attending the luncheon, from others, both locally and from other sections of the county.

Among those invited to the party were: Mrs. H. G. West, Mrs. W. T. Shelton, Mrs. Harry Marshall, Mrs. R. L. Prevost, Mrs. Marie Love Mitchell, Mrs. John N. Shoolbred, Mrs. Thomas N. Massie, Mrs. H. L. MacFayden, Mrs. John K. Boone, Mrs. J. Howell Way, Mrs. John H. Smathers, Mrs. Adora Raine, Mrs. Joe Emerson Rose, Mrs. Jack Holtzclaw, and Miss S. A. Jones.
