Three Davis Brothers In Service

MR. AND MRS. R. L. DAVIS, of Cove Creek, have three sons in the service: Private Grover Lee Davis, Pvt. Claude Eugene Davis, and Pvt. D. C. Davis. Pvt. Grover L. Davis entered the service in March of this year and was inducted at Fort Bragg. From Bragg he was sent to North Camp Hood, Tex., where he is now stationed. He is attached to a tank destroyer division. Before entering the service he was employed by the State Highway Commission. Pvt. Claude E. Davis was inducted at Fort Jackson in January, 1942, and from there was sent to Camp Lee Va., where he is now stationed, serving with the quartermaster corps. Prior to entering the service he was engaged in farming. Pvt. G. C. Davis, who volunteered in the service November 15, 1942, was inducted at Camp Croft. He was then sent to Fort Jackson and on to Camp Lee, Va., where he was stationed for five months. Then he was transferred to Camp Shenango, Pa., and sent to embarkation port in New York, prior to being sent overseas. He first served in England and was later sent to Ireland, where he has served for the past year. Prior to entering the service he was engaged in truck farming.

State College Hints

By Ruth Current, State Home Demonstration Agent N. C. State College.

Before closing the petcock on the pressure cooker, allow the steam to escape at least seven minutes. This gives sufficient time for all air to be released. If the petcock is closed sooner, the air pressure will cause the gauge to rise, but this is not an indication of the amount of steam pressure in the cooker. It is necessary to have steam pressure and not air pressure for proper canning.

If the base of your pressure cooker is so large that it extends beyond the head unit of your prized range and you are afraid the heat will cause the preclain enameled range top to crack, cut a protective ring of asbestos paper to fit around the unit.

When peeling fruits or tomatoes, which have been scalded in boiling water, small fragments of skin stick to the fingers and the knife, and then deposit themselves on the surface of the fruit being peeled. To avoid this, I like the following aid: Place a bowl of cold water at the right of the operator in which to dip hands and knife at intervals. This serves as a large finger bowl and adds to the comfort of the worker as well as increasing her speed of work.

Never cook eggs in boiling water. Bring the water to a boil and use a low or moderate temperature whether the eggs are to be soft, medium, or firm.

Leather shoes worn for garden work need special protection against drying, hardening and cracking, say leather experts. Soil, moisture, and lime all damage leather that is not kept well greased or oiled.

-TIMELY- Farm Questions and Answers

Question: In combining my wheat, I left a heavy stubble. How would you handle this field so as to get good quality lespedeza hay?

Answer: "I would rake up the straw on the field and either save it for bedding, or sell it baled," says Enos Blair, Extension agronomist at State College. "The straw will seriously interfere with the quality of your lespedeza hay, unless you remove it. After about two weeks, I would mow the high stubble and weeds, and remove this material. In waiting to mow the stubble, you are killing two birds with one stone, because the weeds should be clipped any way. Burning straw left by the combine is not only wasteful but it also destroys some of the lespedeza."

Question: What about growing some turnips as a source of feed for livestock?

Answer: County Agent R. E. Davenport of the State College Extension Service reports that G. H. Wright of Montgomery County fed 2 cows, 2 horses, and 6 hogs with turnips from October 15 to April from one acre. His grain requirements were cut in half and the cows and horses did not eat as much hay as normally. According to the report, Wright sold considerable turnips and saved the half gallon of seed he needs for sowing early this fall and also some seed for sale to neighbors.

Frank Carroll Truitt Spends Leave Here

Frank Carroll Truitt, C.M., second class, USNR, son of J. P. Truitt of Hazelwood, left yesterday after spending a week's leave with his family. He has recently returned from 21 months in the South Pacific, where he was attached to the U. S. Marines. He entered the service on April 1, 1942, enlisting in Raleigh. He took his boot training at Camp Allen, Camp Bradford and at Fort Mummer, Calif. He left this country for sea duty on Aug. 11, 1942. Prior to entering the service he was employed by the A. C. Lawrence Leather Company. He has three brothers in the service, Pfc. Ernest C. Truitt, who is stationed at Kelly Field, Tex.; Cpl. H. J. Truitt, who is now serving in Ireland; and Cpl. Paul R. Truitt, who is in England.
