

Haywood Folk Buy 17 of Local Fat Calves

The 19 fat calves from Haywood were entered in the 10th annual fat calf show in Asheville last week, averaging 25½¢ per pound on the sale on Thursday. The champion, owned by Ted Francis, was bought by the First National Bank for 37 cents a pound.

Haywood firms and business men bought 17 of the 19 calves entered in the show and sale.

Robert Sutton, local business man, bought one of the Haywood calves and donated it to the Polio Hospital in Hickory.

The Rotary and Lions Clubs here purchased another calf and plan to barbecue it on the night of November first, and have as their guests the F.F.A. boys and their fathers, and the 4-H Club boys and their fathers together with a large number of patients from the Polio Hospital in Asheville. The barbecue will be held at the Armory.

The Haywood calves averaged 25½¢ per pound, and stood high among the 94 entries.

"We appreciate the backing given by Haywood people to the youth of farmers," said Howard Clapp of Wayne Franklin, in a joint statement yesterday.

The following Haywood business firms invested money in the 19 calves entered from the county: First National Bank, Haywood County Bank, C. E. Galloway, The Food Store, Waynesville Rotary Club, Waynesville borne, Homer Cagle, Claude Medford and Jarvis Coman.

Out of respect to Mr. McCracken the offices in the courthouse and the First National Bank, where he had formerly been employed, were closed during the hours of the funeral.

Mr. McCracken suffered a stroke last Thursday while at his office in the courthouse. He had been talking with friends just a few minutes before he was stricken. He was rushed to the Haywood County Hospital, but his condition was serious from the beginning and little hope was held for his recovery.

Mr. McCracken was a native of Haywood county, the son of Enos E. and Margaret Erwin McCracken of this county. He attended the county schools and was graduated from Weaver College. Soon after finishing school he entered the grocery business here, forming a partnership with Johnny Ferguson. Later selling his interest in the business he became associated with the Bank of Clyde.

His first public office was that of register of deeds of Haywood county in which capacity he served for two terms. Between the time he held that office and the time he was elected county tax collector he was connected with the First National Bank here. After serving as county tax collector for five years, he became secretary and treasurer of the George Brown Supply Company. Later he held a position with the state department of revenue with headquarters in Hendersonville. He resigned the latter post to become county auditor of Haywood in August of this year.

Mr. McCracken also had extensive farming interests in this county and was one of the leading livestock farmers. He was a past master of the Clyde Masonic Lodge and took a leading role in civic affairs.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Gussie Medford; two daughters, Mrs. Ned Tucker, of Waynesville, and Miss Emily McCracken, of Lake Junaluska; two sons, Lt. (jg) Weaver H. McCracken, with the navy in the South Pacific, and Petty Officer Harry B. McCracken, with the navy at Daytona Beach; two sisters, Mrs. Glenn Boyd, and Miss Bell McCracken, of Waynesville, R.F.D. No. 2.

Wells Funeral Home of Canton was in charge of the arrangements.

ships hit the water. Prior to the sending of the ships into the water, Mrs. Clarence T. Leinbach, of Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Broughton had smashed silver-lined encased bottles of champagne against the blunt bows of the invasion ships.

Rear Admiral Jules James, USN, commandant of the Navy Yard and the Sixth Naval District, presided over the ceremonies and introduced Governor Broughton and the two ships' sponsors and other participants.

The Governor was accorded military honors as he and his party arrived at the building ways, where a guard of honor of Marines stood at attention on one side and the yard's ranking Navy captains on the other. The sun had set as the ceremonies got under way.

In the ceremonies preceding the actual christenings, each sponsor received a silver tray from William Zeigler, chairman of the Yard's Central Shop Committee, representing the men and women who built the ships. Mrs. Leinbach and Mrs. Broughton received large bouquets of flowers.

Each ship bore a red, white and blue plaque on which were inscribed the names of the counties they were honoring.

Following the launching ceremonies the visitors were the guests at the Navy Yard at the Officers Club, at a dinner party, with all the color and glamor of the navy.

See Dental Lavatories In Postwar Bathroom

Many postwar bathrooms will be equipped with dental lavatories, says the plumbing and heating industries bureau in calling attention to the many desirable features of this fixture.

The dental lavatory was consistently gaining favor in prewar homes because of its hygienic advantages, the bureau points out. By providing a place for brushing the teeth and gargling, the dental lavatory helps to prevent the spread of communicable diseases.

The installation of a dental lavatory, furthermore, enables a bathroom to accommodate more traffic and thus increases the utility of the room with but little additional space requirements. Dental lavatories vary in size from 12 x 12, and 13 x 14, to 16 x 15.

Made of sanitary, easy to clean, and lustrous vitreous china, the dental lavatory adds beauty to the bathroom. The fixture is hung from the wall, is usually equipped with an integral shelf at the back, has a flushing rim, and is made without a drain plug.

Mrs. Richard N. Barber and daughters, Elizabeth Barber and Mary McClesky Barber, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Norman, in Griffin, Ga.

Mrs. R. N. Barber, who has been a patient in the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem, returned home last night.
