The Church During War and Peace

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
 (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 12 is Isaiah 2 2-4, 9-6, 7, Matt. 5:43-48; Romans 13 1-7, the Golden Text being Matt. 5:9, "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called sons of God.")

THE FIRST reference in our lesson is to Isaiah, where the prophet says that in the last days the house of the Lord shall be established in the top of the mountains, and that all the nations shall flock to it.

And the nations shall be judged and some rebuked, and "they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation neither shall they learn war any more."

What can we do to be ready when this wonderful day comes? Further Isaiah prophesies. "For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace."

"Of the increase of His government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon His kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever. The zeal of the Lord of Hosts will perform this."

Fight Necessary
 At present, while we are in the midst of a great war to liberate enslaved people, we must fight. Bestiality, cruelty unpeepable have been visited upon defenseless men, women and children, and we must fight to stamp it out, with God's help.

If we cannot go to battle for the right, we can suppress any feelings we may have of racial superiority; we must realize that such emotions are unchristian, and that as God loves ALL His people, we must acknowledge that all are our brothers, nourished by the same sun, helped by the same beneficent rain—which falls on the just and the unjust. We must try to understand peoples of other nations and races, seeing that their problems are our problems, and that peace can only come when there is mercy and justice to all on earth.
 Jesus tells us that we shall love even those who are unkind to us. "Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you, and persecute you

"That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven for He maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust."

That tells us very clearly what we—even little children—can be taught to do. Have you an enemy? Has any one been hateful to you? Don't fight, with words or fists. Try to see if your conduct has been correct, if you are in any way to blame. If you find you are even in a small measure at fault, make amends, and even if your attitude is not at first appreciated, hold your temper. Pray to be shown how to love that person, to understand why he or she is your enemy, and to win him over.

What Reward Have Ye?

As Jesus asked, "If ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? do not even the publicans the same?"
 "And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others?"

These things may seem a small and even unimportant beginning to world peace, but if we could train everyone to act so, every one even in our own country, it would have a wonderful influence. If even one Sunday school really practiced Jesus' commandment, the effect would be marvelous.

We have so much to be thankful for in our country. If we obey the laws of the land, we have nothing to fear and the laws are not harsh or unjust. St. Paul told the Romans, "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God, the powers that be are ordained of God."

"Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God."
 "For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to evil. Will thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same."
