There are three very small items that play a large part in the oiling of the machinery in our everyday lives; three factors that can smooth out the wrinkles we find on our pathway and bring out the sunshine from behind the darkest cloud. They cost absolutely nothing yet are hoarded belligerently by entirely too many people. They return the largest dividend possible on an investment, yet are neglected and overlooked to a deplorable degree.

They are, a smile, "Please," and "Thank you." Have you ever stopped to think that a smile can become a habit and has never failed to get results? It takes the least effort and means only the use of a few facial muscles, yet so many folk absolutely refuse to try out its potentialities. For some unknown reason they seem to feel that it would be a lessening of importance whereas it has the power of raising the donor to a height un-reached by a scowl or frown. A smile will do more to unite two people into a common trend of mind than almost any other means of procedure.

"Please" takes one single breath, a small amount for so pleasing a sound. Somehow that word opens a doorway through which one passes pleasantly, agreeably and with alacrity. No task is hard, no request unreasonable when preceded

Most fire losses are due to carelessness. They can be prevented but you can't leave it to the other fellow to prevent. Disconnect the electric iron before you leave it. Be careful with matches and smoking. Store gasoline and kerosene in clearly marked metal containers. Clear out old paper, magazines, rags, furniture and rubbish. Deliver paper and rags to local salvage committees.

Whenever possible choose a flared lamp shade in preference to a drum shaped shade. A flared shade spreads the light over a wider area for better see-ability, whereas a drum-shade "hugs" the light around the base of the lamp.

A pot of parsley on the window sill is not only useful for seasoning winter dishes but decorative as well because of its bright green curly leaves. Of all the seasoning herbs, parsley is probably the easiest to grow indoors.

Take up a plant from the garden. Clip off the larger leaves. Plant in rich, well-drained soil—one part sand to three parts good garden loam. Keep the transplanted plant in the shade and well watered for several days until it starts growing. Then give it sunshine and regular watering.

Parsley gives an especially fine flavor to meats, soups, and eggs dishes if it is chopped and then heated a moment in a little fat.

Many men have a sense of humor, but in women its a sense of rumor.

Some few men may be self-made, but most have been made over by their wives.

Just try this recipe one day, tomorrow or even today. Slip a smile into the corner of your lips and let it spring out unexpectedly. Watch the reaction. And when you ask a favor, let "Please" open the door for you. Then when the favor has been granted, "Thank you" won't cost you a cent in tips but, brother, it will bring a return engagement. Try it once and if not successful, ... smile.
