Mrs. Lula Belle Cannon Paris, widow of Dr. Zadok Paris, late distinguished Methodist minister, died early Friday morning in Atlanta while on a visit to her son and daughter, E. Ralph Paris and Mrs. Robert H. Scott. She had a home at Lake Junaluska where she resided for many years.

Mrs. Paris, who was in her 76th year, was born in Gaston county of this state, September 21, 1869 and was married to Dr. Paris, then a youthful Methodist minister, January 29, 1889. The couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Atlanta in 1939.

The deceased is survived by one brother, E. R. Cannon of Charlotte; a daughter, Mrs. Scott, wife of a prominent Atlanta advertising man and well known in work with the Daughters of the American Revolution; her son, Mr. Paris, past president of the Atlanta Rotary Club and chairman of the Board of stewards of Atlanta's First Methodist church; and four grandchildren, Ralph Paris, Jr., Edith Paris, Robert H. Scott, Jr., and Lula Belle Scott. Burial was in Elmwood cemetery, Charlotte.

Mrs. Paris, as the devoted wife of a well known churchman, enjoyed a wide acquaintance through the South, particularly in North Carolina, where she ably aided her husband's pastoral work in Charlotte, Mountain Island, Lilesville, Norwood, Asheville, Kings Mountain, Mt. Airy, Lumberton, Marion, North Wilkesboro, Murphy, Concord, Salisbury and other charges which he filled before his voluntary superannuation in 1928. At the time of his death, Dr. Paris was the oldest living alumnus of Duke University, from which he graduated when it was known as Trinity College.

Christian Living at Its Best

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Dec. 17 is Galatians 5:22-6:10, the Golden Text being Gal. 5:25, "If we live by the Spirit, by the Spirit let us also walk.")

TODAY'S LESSON is all contained in Paul's letter to the Galatians, which he wrote from Corinth.

He has previously been listing the "works of the flesh," and turning from them—and a horrifying list he mentions—he turns to the "fruit of the Spirit." Fruit is the result of life. The fruit of a tree will depend upon the tree's root. An apple tree will bring forth apples, an orange tree oranges. The fruit of the tree comes from the fruit—not the bark, or the leaves or flowers, but the fruit. The fruit of a good life brings blessings to others and to the person practicing same.

The fruit of this good life—the life of the Spirit—is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, in later versions, self-control, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law.

The first of these fruits is love, love to God and love to man. Joy comes next, and joy makes us cheerful. Joy fills us when we realize our blessings and the goodness of the Father toward us. Christians, of all people, should have happy faces and deep joy within.

Peace After Joy

After joy comes peace, a quiet, serene feeling that nothing can disturb because we know in the depths of our beings that whatever comes to us, we have strength not our own, but of the Spirit—to endure it.

Longsuffering means patience and cheerfulness—to bear the ills that come to us, the hurts and slights as well as misfortunes. Kindness is an active, busy virtue, an attitude of love toward all and a desire to help them when we can. Goodness shines in the faces of those who walk in the Spirit. It makes people trust and love good people because they know they can be trusted and will be kind and helpful.

A man who is faithful may be trusted. His "word is as good as his bond," they say. He is faithful to his trusts, whether they be light or heavy. Meekness keeps the Christian from being vain, for he well knows his own weakness and that he owes his strength to resist from God. And self-control is a command over bodily appetites. Living in the Spirit covers the whole range of moral discipline, enabling one to control one's conduct.

"If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit." We must not envy or provoke one another. If another is overtaken in a fault, we should be patient and "restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted." We may have self-control, but our faults are not dead. Only by realizing this and being constantly on guard can we be sure we, too, will not fall into temptation.

Bear One Another's Burdens

"Bear ye one another's burdens." Burden means heavy weights. If we see others bearing a heavy load of trouble, we may not be able to take the burden away, but we can at least, by love and kindness, help them to bear it. "Let him that is taught in the word, communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things." Support for those who give all their time to the teaching of the Word is included in this instruction.

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." There are people who seem to think that if they keep their wrongdoing secret, they will not suffer for it, but how deceived they are! Human beings may not know of the evil, but the person's own conscience knows and God knows. He is not deceived, and as sure as the sun rises and sets, punishment will follow sin.

Last, let us not weary in well-doing. We are weak and get tired as we journey through life—tired and discouraged. Paul tells us not to weary in the struggle. If we are steadfast, we shall reap a glorious harvest.

"For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption, but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap everlasting life."

"As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith."

Three Years Of Service

DAVID HOLLIFIELD, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carmen Hollifield, of Richmond, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hollifield of Waynesville, who has served with distinction in the Navy.

ments at Guadalcanal, the Coral Sea and Midway.

His story includes the initial landing on Guadalcanal August 7, 1942, and its defense and capture, action on Makin Island and Stewart Island at Cape Esperance, Santa Cruz, and the battle of "Torpedo Junction" in the Coral Sea.

The Distinguished Service Medal ranking next to the Navy Cross was awarded the young pharmacist's mate for gallantry in action in the landing at Guadalcanal. He is credited with eight Japs in addition to his work in saving American lives. He got three at Tarawa when he hit the beach in the second boat of the first wave. At Guam he wounded two more.

Young Hollifield, who was a student at high school in Richmond when he answered the call to serve his country three years ago, is home for the first time in two and one half years with his parents in Richmond. There are still four slugs in his hip that he got from the Jap sniper on Guam.

A little later these are to be removed at a naval hospital in Miami, Fla. There is a part of his job that he wants to carry on after the war. When asked about the future he said, "I want to be a doctor."

Two men, both noted for their caution when it comes to money, met on the street a few days ago.

First Man: "Well, well, fancy running into you like this. I was just looking for someone to lend me $10."

Second Man: "Is that so? Well, it's a nice day for it."

Grandson Of A. J. Hollifields Serves Marines With Distinction

A hidden Jap machine gun chattering in the dead of night on Guam Island put an end to the long overseas tour of Pharmacist's Mate First Class David J. Hollifield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen J. Hollifield, of Richmond, Va., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hollifield, of Waynesville.

"It was about 2:30 or 3 o'clock in the morning," he said. "A doctor, a Marine corpsman and I were in a pup tent several miles inland and about two miles from the front. We were operating by the light of a lantern on a Marine who had a hip and shoulder shattered by a 77-mm. shell. The tent was supposed to be in a quiet place away from the fighting."

"All of us heard the click and hit the deck. I guess I must have been the first one down. The Jap was firing a 37-mm. machine gun. He killed the doctor, the Marine corpsman and the wounded Marine and put five slugs in my hip. It seemed like he fired for five minutes before another Marine killed him. The Marine came into the tent and asked me how I was. I tried to get up. I found I couldn't move. The Marine carried me on his back to an aid station and the doctors sent me home."

The grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hollifield, who has often visited here served from January 14, 1942, to April 9, 1943, on a battleship and then saw action with the Fleet Marine Force. Three of his five stars are for naval engage-
