Reading From Left To Right

—With—
FRANCES GILBERT FRAZIER

"THE READERS DIGEST" made up of selected articles and features of 18 years of the Readers Digest, one of the best known magazines ever published. How many times have you yourself quoted some article from the Readers Digest and then said, "usually, I can't remember in just which issue that was. I wish I could for it is well worth reading again." Now, at your finger tips, you can have the best of this popular magazine's articles and features. It is unbelievably reasonable and there is no excuse for not getting that copy you will long enjoy.

Edvard McSorley has written a most sympathetic and sparkling novel in "OUR OWN KIND." It is human and so natural a story that the reader lives right along with old Ned McDermott who had come from the old country over to this new and promising land. Your heart goes out, and with Willie and his devoted grandfather, Old Ned, and your fellow along with them, not wanting to miss a single episode in their life of idiotic devotion to each other.

Throughout the whole story there shines the childlike charm of the comic temperament, with its swift emotional transitions, fierce loyalties and the wistful magic of fresh imagination. . . the yearning aspiration of the American dream.

It's a book you won't easily forget. . . nor the lasting charm of its pages.

WASHINGTON—President Truman was the recipient of a 900-year-old Korean porcelain vase.

Dr. Lee Wook Chang, leader of a Korean educational mission now in this country to advocate an exchange of students between the United States and Korea, made the presentation.

He said the 18-inch high vase, one of five of its kind in the world, was buried in a royal tomb and excavated in 1912.

the name has stuck ever since. And when DeSoto rode into the Cherokee Nation long years ago, a diary-writing Portuguese, following in his train, thought the Cherokees called themselves "Chalaque" and wrote it down that way. The name was further corrupted, in the English, to Cherokee. But, my friend, Rev. Mr. Smith, says his people should be called "Tsalagi" which means "distant fire."

"We have no sound in our language for the letter 'r' and we cannot say 'Sir' but 'Suh' in good old Southern fashion," said Rev. Mr. Smith.

We took the Cherokee's ancestral homeland, which had been theirs from "time out of mind" and now a few would deny the Cherokee the right to vote. Let's stop persecuting the Cherokee Indian, or they can say, in our day, that, "We asked for the bread of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness and they have given us a stone."

18-Year-Olds Still Register But Not Called

May marked the second month since the first group of men left here under the selective service system when no one left from the local board for induction in the service, because of the lack of required reclassification.

During the month of May there were 18 eighteen-year-olds who registered. While this age group is not being called into active service, they are still required by the new ruling to register with their local board.

In the group registering eighteen in May were the following: James Harold Green, Clyde R.F.D. No. 1; Cecil Garrett, Medford, Waynesville, R.F.D. No. 2; Medford Burgess, Cove Creek, Clyde; John Buckner, Waynesville, R.F.D. No. 2; William Malcolm James, Jr., Waynesville, R.F.D. No. 2.

Kenneth Edward Robinson, Hazletwood; Dave Lincoln Hantah, Cove Creek; Paul Rogers, Waynesville; Joe Roy Turner, Waynesville; and Wilbur Houston Rich, Waynesville, R.F.D. No. 1.

March Passenger Tire Output Rises

KENOSHA, Wis., Nash Motors has announced that it planned to ship 400 automobiles to eastern points by boat this week. It will be the first automobile shipment by water in about 10 years.

Officials said the coal dispute and uncertainty of rail transportation because of the impending strike of trainmen were factors in the decision to resume lake shipping.

The new cars are consigned for Buffalo, N. Y., Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

'HELLDORADO' SPINACH HARVEST

CHINS ARE UP in Las Vegas, Nev., as the annual "Carnival of Helledorado" ends and the old-fashioned whiskers raised by the occasion are chopped off. Here a line of "whiskerers" line up waiting their turn to lose their crop of chin spinach. (International)

Snap Shots Of The HUMAN SIDE OF LIFE

—By—
FRANCES GILBERT FRAZIER

There is one National sport that is played indoors and outdoors with equal dexterity. . . and played both ends to the middle. We have reference to the game of "passing the buck." There are many versions as to its origin, none of which we can authenticate. But the fact remains, wherever it was started, that in the year of our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Forty-Six, it has reached the heights of perfection, and is spoken in every language including the Saskatchewan.

Why is it that the human race cannot bear to acknowledge they have made a mistake? They'll walk and talk themselves into a lather trying to find a way to latch their error on some poor, unsuspecting sucker who is, probably, innocent about his way of buffering nobody. And it's always some slow-thinking fellow that can't act quickly enough to pass the buck along to some one else.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coburn, of Canton, announce the birth of a daughter on May 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Burnett, of Canton, R.F.D. No. 2, announce the birth of a son on May 29th.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Sutton, of Cove Creek, announce the birth of a daughter on May 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Woods, of Hazletwood, announce the birth of a daughter on May 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jenkins, of Iron Dull, announce the birth of a daughter on May 30th.

wholesale use of mistakes that are to be laughed off and taken lightly. Not by any means. An error is a serious thing and even so small a one as a misplaced comma can turn a beneficiary of his uncle's will into a raving madman. All matters should be handled with the greatest care and scrutiny for no one really wants to make a mistake any more than the baseball player whose play in the league depends upon his accuracy. But have you ever heard a player say it was the second baseman's error when the ball slipped through his waiting fingers on an easy fly that would retire the side?

Don't go at your work so casually that errors will rise predominantly conspicuous throughout your day. Steady down when you find things getting a bit puzzled, study out proper methods and then go about it in a painstaking way and put interest in the work before you. Even with all this care, there'll be slip-ups at times. . . but for the love of Mike, when this happens, don't be small enough to slam the blame off on some one else. Be big enough to shoulder it yourself.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to our friends and neighbors for the flowers, kindness and expressions of sympathy during the illness and death of our son and brother, The Smathers Family.
