LOST EVERYTHING BUT FRIENDS

EVERYTHING OWNED BY Ed Kelley and his wife, Marjory, was destroyed when a fire burned their trailer home on the campus of Marietta, Ohio, College, where he was a student. Even their dog, Candy, terrified by the blaze, disappeared. But Candy returned and the couple's friends collected $300 to give them a fresh start. The Air Force veteran and his wife are shown in their new home. (International Soundphoto)

Canton Writer Apologises For Criticism

The Canton Enterprise will on Thursday, carry a public apology to the Waynesville school officials, as an outgrowth of criticism carried in a featured sports column of that paper last Thursday.

The column, written by James E. Williamson, carried severe criticism of the local officials for not providing reserved seats at the Waynesville-Canton football game for the Canton band. The seats were provided, but taken by Canton fans who ignored the ropedoff section. The fans, however, gladly gave their seats to members of the band, when the situation was explained to them.

Mr. Williamson wrote local school officials a note after the error had been called to his attention, stating in part: "May I apologize for the criticism I made in my column (in the Canton paper) this week, accusing Waynesville high school officials of failure to reserve a section of seats for the Canton Band? I learned today, after The Canton Enterprise was published, that a section was reserved but that our own fans took it over."

"I'm sorry that I falsely accused you and your associates, and public apology will be made next week in The Canton Enterprise."

letter in part. "With this type of cooperation the Fourth Haywood County Livestock and Home Arts Show should be even better."

The number of infant deaths plus still births in North Carolina is 89 per 1,000 births; 74 for the white and 120 for the negro.

Springdale Octette Sings Over W.I.S.E.

The Springdale School Octette, under the direction of Sol B. Cohen, presented a program of songs over Station W.I.S.E. as part of the Asheville Station's Seventh anniversary program, which was presented Sunday afternoon.

The group sang the following numbers: "Dear North Carolina," an original composition by Sol B. Cohen, "In the Evening By the Moonlight," "The Moustache Song," "Stand Up and Fight," with a solo by Chuck Klein and "Your Land and My Land".
