Liquor Vote Bill Is Sent To Assembly Wednesday

Measure Is Introduced By Senator Penny Asking For State Referendum

Senator George Penny of Guilford county introduced a bill Wednesday asking for a statewide referendum next November 4 on the sale of liquor and all wines of more than three per cent alcoholic content.

Senator Penny is well known in Haywood as one of the Penny Brothers, land auctioneers, he being the stout one.

His bill did not mention beer, and it would exempt light, domestic wines. It was sent by the Senate to the finance committee, which is headed by Senator Gray of Forsyth, which like Guilford is dry.

Trustees of the allied church league for prohibition of beverage alcohol drafted plans for introducing such a measure at a meeting in Raleigh two weeks. Penny, however, has said he introduced the bill entirely on his own initiative.

Similar attempts to dry up the state have died in committees when (Continued on Page Eight)

Health Dept. Urges Fight Against Mosquitoes Here

More Than $30 Million In Checks Are Cashed By Local Bank In 1946

Waynesville for years has prided itself for being the summer resort without mosquitoes. This reputation, well deserved in the past, is going to be lost unless definite steps are taken this year to eliminate the pests, according to Robert Livingston, senior sanitarian with the district health department.

Several species of mosquitoes are found in this area, some which are transmitters of disease and others which are of concern only because of their stinging bite. "The history of mosquitoes in the Waynesville area dates back only a few years," he states. "Many of us are aware of the infestation during the past summer. Unless effective control measures are inaugurated by all parties concerned, a major problem jeopardizing our health and comfort can be expected."

Mosquito control should be made a full-time job of some competent person throughout the breeding season here, from the first of June until October, Mr. Livingston recommends. His other duties do not allow him time to give mosquito control the thorough supervision necessary, although he plans to assist as much as possible by calling attention to the condition and pointing out ways the public can keep mosquitoes down.

Since mosquitoes, in their first three stages of life, are dependent upon water, the primary control measure recognized by mosquito experts is drainage. All standing puddles, empty cans and other holders of stagnant water should (Continued on page 8)

Anti-Tank Unit Will Take Place Of NCSG

Capt. Jim Davis Recruited Fifteen Members Of Company At First Enlistment

There were 15 enlistments in the Waynesville National Guard company at the first recruiting meeting Wednesday night at the Armory, reports Capt. Jim Davis.

Only 30 men are required to gain the unit federal recognition, which would authorize pay for each weekly period of drill attended by the guardsmen. Capt. Davis was to be at the Armory again last night, and Wednesday and Thursday night of next week if necessary to get the minimum number of personnel.

The local unit is to be the Anti-Tank company of the 120th Infantry Regiment, 30th Division. Upon it being federally recognized the State Guard company, which Capt. Davis also commands, will be disbanded. Several state guardsmen have joined the new company.

Ex-servicemen interested in joining the company are asked to bring their discharge papers with them at the time they apply, since it contains much of the information required for National Guard records, such as their former rank.

No ratings can be given until the company is recognized and a Table of Organization is sent to the commanding officer. However, Capt. Davis states that there are several good non-commissioned ratings open. The minimum pay for each period of drill will be $2.80.

Dr. Thomas Stringfield, Jr., has been recommended to give the physical examinations to those who enlist in the company. Second Lt. Frank Byrd has received appointment as one of the company officers.

Parts Shortage Is Cause Of Bad Brakes On Buses

Practically all school buses in the Haywood county school district have good floor brakes, having been tested by State Highway Patrolmen in recent months, but due to the shortage of brake lining for Dodge trucks and brake rods for Chevrol-ets there are a number of emergency brakes which are not in good condition.

This was explained by Jack Messer, superintendent of education, in view of the findings of the Grand Jury during its inspection last week which cited several deficiencies in school buses.

Efforts have been made continuously to secure the brake linings and rods, but all dealers in this area do not have them, Mr. Messer reports. All buses that are used on mountainous routes have good brakes, emergency as well as foot, with the equipment taken off other buses to keep them that way.

The shortage of plumbing parts has caused, to a great extent, the bad condition of a number of toilets, adds Mr. Messer.
