being launched on a nation-wide scale in one to four counties in each state.

In North Carolina, Haywood and Iredell are the only two counties in which the program has been set up and approved.

However, the results of the work in these two counties will be analyzed by the various agencies to determine exactly what parts of it would be useful in their own particular programs.

One of the prime purposes is to encourage the individual farmer to organize and maintain his own conservation program and to use his experience in developing his own agricultural projects.

The directors of the program also want the farmer to consider his farm as a whole, rather than as a single cash enterprise around ties against those filing after January 1. He said, however, that since he had not received the notice until January 4 that he would charge penalties only against those people who file after that date.

The penalty, he declared, amounts to either $5 or 25 per cent of the income tax the delinquent filer must pay—whichever is the greater.

The letter Mr. Walston is sending out to the delinquent taxpayer requests him to come to the collector's office in the Court House on a certain date and bring all his records with him.

If the tax payer does not appear to keep the engagement, then Mr. Walston will compute the tax, penalty, and interest he owes and send him a bill for it.

If the tax payer doesn't pay the bill, he'll be subject to a tax warrant.

Mr. Walston said about 500 persons in and around Canton are on the delinquent list as not having filed tax returns for 1946, '47, or '48.

He also reminded the folks who have figured that their exemptions do not require them to pay any tax that they are required by law to file a return anyway, showing these exemptions.

The late tax money turned in to the collector's office by December 31 did not mean, however, that everyone of those filing returns made payments.

Actually, Mr. Walston said, the money came from only 20 per cent of those who filed.

S. Production Credit Administration of Haywood and Buncombe Counties, and the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station.

For the training period, two-man teams consisting of a forester and an agronomist will instruct groups of approximately 20 PMA community committeemen each, spending two days on farms, going over woodland, cropland, and pastureland to observe conditions.

One PMA official pointed out also that one important effect of the new project will be to make it a supplement to the extensive Community Development Program which is entering its second year in Haywood.

bucket brigade hastily organized by church workers who were preparing the chapel for a Christmas program. It was under control when a fire engine from Canton and the hose cart from Clyde arrived.

One Clyde official said later that if the blaze had made any headway, the town's hose cart could have done little good.

The cart carried only 1,000 feet of hose, he explained, and the fire hydrant closest to the church was some 3,000 feet away.

The members of the bucket brigade had obtained their water from a nearby house.
