Jonah Learns God's Purpose ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The word of the Lord came to Jonah, telling him to go to the great city of Nineveh and warn the people that the city would be destroyed if they failed to mend their ways.

Jonah didn't want to go to Nineveh, so he boarded a boat going to Tarshish to flee from the Lord. A great storm arose, and all on board were afraid, and they threw Jonah into the sea.

A great fish swallowed Jonah, and he remained in its belly for three days and nights, praying constantly to the Lord to save him; and he would do what Jehovah wished.

The Lord caused the great fish to vomit Jonah onto the beach, and he went to Nineveh and called the people to repentance.

JONAH LEARNS GOD'S PURPOSE

PROPHET SENT TO WARN WICKED NINEVEH

Scripture—Jonah

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

WE HEAR and read much about crime and wickedness in the great cities of the world today. Rackets of all kinds, thievery, murder, all sorts of evil, exist in our own country. Nevertheless, very much good work is also being done, and there are many more good, law-abiding citizens in every city than there are robbers, racketeers and murderers.

We cannot think of any of our cities as being so wicked that they should be totally destroyed. So must the Lord have felt about the city of Nineveh, which was noted both because of the many wars it had waged, and for the cruelty which was practiced by its citizens.

So the Lord called upon Jonah, "the son of Amitti," telling him to go to Nineveh and warn its inhabitants that if they did not cease their evil ways, He would utterly destroy it.

Nineveh was a Gentile city, and the Jewish people hated the Assyrians and feared them, and the Prophet Jonah evidently could not understand why he, a loyal Jew, them, and he told them, suggesting that they cast him overboard to see if the storm would still.

The sailors did not want to do it, and tried hard to row the ship to land, but it was no use, so, praying that God would forgive them if they were taking the life of an innocent man, they threw him into the sea, which quieted at once.

"Now the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow Jonah. And Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights."

Jonah prayed unceasingly to the Lord to save him, and on the third day the great fish vomited him onto the beach. Jonah's prayer is a beautiful one, and should be read aloud. Exhausted by his trial, Jonah knew that he could not longer ignore the Lord's command, so he made the long, hard journey to this Gentile city and cried aloud: "Yet forty days and Nineveh shall be overthrown!"

Probably Jonah had no idea that the people of Nineveh would take him seriously, but they did.

"Be ye kind one to another."—Ephesians 4:32.

should be asked to go to warn the enemies of his people of danger.

Instead of obeying the Lord's command, therefore, Jonah went to Joppa where he found a ship going to Tarshish, which is understood to have been the city of Tartessus, in southern Spain, near Gibraltar; paid his passage and boarded the ship. He must have thought he was safe and that the Lord would not be able to find him in that distant place.

However, he did not succeed. A terrible storm arose that so tossed the ship about that all aboard feared they were going to be lost in a wreck. The sailors threw the cargo overboard to lighten the ship, hoping it could ride out the storm, but it was no use. Then the shipmaster went below, and found Jonah peacefully sleeping, and the shipmaster said "What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, call upon thy God, if it be so thy God will think upon us, that we perish not."

The seamen, meanwhile, decided to cast lots to try to find the person who had called this terror upon them. The lot fell on Jonah. They asked him then what he had done to bring the storm upon

They proclaimed a fast, and all put on sackcloth, "from the greatest of them even to the least of them."

The king heard of the warning, and he took off his royal robes and wore sackcloth and sat in ashes. He issued a decree that everyone should fast and wear sackcloth, even the beasts, and all the people should pray to God unceasingly.

Seeing that the people of Nineveh repented of their wickedness and tried to make amends, the Lord relented and spared the city.

This did not please Jonah, however. In fact, he was very angry with the Lord, and told Him that that was what he had feared all along, that the Lord was too good and kind-hearted to destroy the city if the inhabitants showed signs of repenting. So angry was the prophet that he wanted to die.

We haven't room here for the argument the Lord and Jonah had—the Lord striving to show His prophet that He was God also of the Gentiles, not only of the Jews, and must show the same goodness and forgiving spirit to them as He did to the Jewish race.
