Lightning's Franks

Freak lightning has been known to tear stone pieces from buildings and fling them many city blocks away. Once when a country potato field was hit, the stalks were burned to ashes, but the potatoes in the ground were merely well baked.

Radio Speaker

The priests of St. John's Church will begin a new series of radio talks over Station WHCC to be heard every Saturday morning at 9:30. The talks entitled "Faith and Reason" will be delivered by the Rev. C. F. Hill, assistant at St. John's Church since May 15th. Father Hill came to Waynesville from Wake Forest where he was a member of the Mission Board of the Diocese of Raleigh, engaged in preaching throughout North Carolina and especially from the Trailer Chapel "Madonnas of the Highways," which is used during the summer months to bring Religious truths to the rural areas of this state.

Speaking For Animals

who cannot speak for themselves.

For myself and my little brother I want to say Waynesville's summer visitors are just about the nicest people on earth.

This is how it was—we were only tiny pups; brother and me, and somehow we did get strayed and we also got a little smatch of mange, too. Well, these nice people who were just visiting here found us and they PICKED US UP. Now you know a lot of people wouldn't do that, not two of us, and only a few months old at that. We don't remember mama but she must have had some cocker in her for that's what we look like—all black, and darlings if I do say so. Well the nice visitors found a home for my little brother—you know how it is, the boys always get all the breaks. Me, they took to Dr. Riegg and boarded me there and had my mange treated and paid for just everything.

And then the visitors had to go on to Atlanta. So here I am, cute as a trick, sitting up at Dr. Reigg's all bills paid and the mange almost gone—a dear little lady. Won't somebody please give me a home?

Monday I heard the Dr. telling his wife about some other dogs at the dog pound in Waynesville. Seems he had to destroy seven—no one wanted them. Um! Hope that doesn't happen to me! Well, and then he told her about two awfully nice ones that maybe someone would like. One is a little like me, only she has some white and is much older,—about ten months, he said, but her hair is short and she has gorgeous whiskers. Imagine! Whiskers on a girl! The other is a very smart looking fellow, about fourteen months and mostly terrier. All three of us like Waynesville and would like to settle here in our own homes. How about it—please? Oh, THANKS!

Actor Is 'Corpse' Expert

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Mel Vinn, currently playing his 100th movie dead man, is known at the Central Casting Agency as "the cutest corpse in Hollywood."

"Specialization is the key to success in Hollywood," Vinn said emphatically. "I am a specialist in what I call 'still death.' I am never seen dying. I take only parts that already are dead."

Vinn's 100th dead man is a corpse in Universal-International's "Kansas Raiders." When Audie Murphy and Brian Donlevy, heading Quantrell's infamous raiding party, leave a group of Union sympathizers dead and bleeding in front of an old farmhouse, the camera pans past Vinn's grotesquely still body and agonized face.

"My first job was in 1936 in 'Murder in the Big House,'" he said. "I was shot through the head on the penitentiary grounds. The way I sprawled was very distinctive. I've been earning my living that way ever since."

Earns Reputation

Central Casting gradually came to recognize Vinn as one of the cinema capital's most expert corpses. Before he realized it he had the reputation of the cadaver producers clamor for.

"I've been dead on my back, on my belly, strung from a tree, mangled in a wreck, on an operating table, and, sometimes, a silent resident of the county morgue," he said.

"I've often wondered what it would be like to see myself moving or hear my voice on the screen," he added. "But I don't suppose I'll ever find out. I'd hate to take a chance on changing my luck and ruining my reputation."

It was a double triumph for Vinn when, after finishing his 100th corpse in "Kansas Raiders,"
