CAREER GIRLS DUBIOUS ABOUT MARRIAGE

CHICAGO — More than 99 per cent of Chicago girls between 14 and 16 years old plan marriage, a survey disclosed, but their older sisters are not so hopeful. Only 62.7 per cent of Chicago white-collar girls surveyed expected to find husbands.

The surveys were conducted by the State Street Council to help merchants know more about the lives of their customers.

The merchants found out that most of the girls and women desire to branch out from the home fires and get a job.

Nearly half of the career girls, despite their concern about getting married, said they planned to continue their jobs even after acquiring husbands. More than 66 per cent of the teen-agers said they'd like dual roles of typing and cooking.

Dear Judy,

Sometimes young moderns are fearful that their personal problems sound silly to other people. So they brood over them. Kids who unravel their difficulties by confiding in mother, teacher or auntie or perhaps even a girl friend will find their problems aren't very huge after all.

Here are some questions asked by Battle Creek teenagers. Compare them with your own problems. Maybe you'll find the answer here:

Question: How can the girls make the boys wake up at parties and be a little fun once in a while?

Answer: The age-old etiquette rule is that the girl gives the first nod. Some boys are bashful and even if they aren't, perhaps they have been brought up to respect the theory that the girl should speak first. Without being rude or forward a girl can start a conversation with a boy and perhaps put him at ease in a few minutes. He might turn out to be a very funny fellow and entertain the group — after the ice is broken.

If a boy is a general cut-up the first time you meet him, you probably will dislike him. The type of boy who is the life of a party is, after all, an egoist or an amateur comedian of sorts. If you want to be entertained by this type of boy, then party companions should be chosen with that in mind.

Most girls would like a boy to be fun and singularly devoted to them at the same time. Usually, it doesn't work out that way. You've got to decide on one or the other unless you've elected a real personality boyfriend — and they're few and far between.

Question: How old should a girl be before she has a steady boyfriend?

Answer: This question is difficult because of the many factors involved — environment, parental discipline, IQ of the girl and the boy. Age is not so much a factor as these other considerations.

A girl or boy should not go "steady" when that first romance peers around the apple tree. While there would probably be no harm in it if each was intelligent enough to call a halt when they discovered it was just puppy love, often young people who are insecure and uncertain about their appeal to the opposite sex, cling to each other in desperation. Sometimes a companionship of this sort results in a marriage in which each is dedicated to a lifetime of toleration and true marital happiness is never experienced.

Mrs. C. H. McLean of Coral Gables, Fla., spent a week visiting her brothers and sisters, Grady Howell, Roy Howell, Mrs. F. R. Kennedy and Mrs. W. T. Rainer.

Question: How late should teen-agers stay out on weekends and week nights?

Answer: Most schoolgirls who must buckle down to homework in the evening should skip during the week dates. However, on special occasions most parents make an exception and Sis is entitled to a 10 or 11 o'clock curfew, depending on the importance of her date.

Week ends a girl over 18 usually is permitted out until 1 o'clock, providing she is escorted by a boy whom the family knows and of whom they approve. A girl younger than 18 most often is expected home at 11 o'clock and with special permission at 12 o'clock.

Question: What is best to say to a boy when he puts his arm around you—especially if you've just met him.

Answer: If the boy is a shy bashful type and thinks that the gesture is expected of him, you can put him at ease by gently reminding him that you've just met him and don't know him well enough for that kind of friendliness.

If the boy is a smart aleck, anything you say to him is o.k. because he deserves it. Never tolerate any discourtesy from this sort of character, who will respect you more for slapping him down. Above all, never put yourself in that kind of situation with him again.

TURTLES DON'T ROAM FAR, CARVINGS INDICATE

COLUMBUS, O. — Two stories heard here indicate that turtles do not travel far from home.

Edwin Barker, living near Logan, reported that he saw a land turtle on his farm which bears on its underside the inscription "E.B. 1883," carved there 67 years ago by Edwin Barker, Sr. The senior Barker had marked the turtle in the field adjoining the one in which it was found.

Mrs. Garrett McIntyre of Gallopis reported that she found a turtle near her home on which she had carved her initials in 1911.
