Scene From Festival's Opening Event

Bill Burgin wheels Miss Jimmie Watts through the arch of tobacco leaves at last night's Barnwarming Dance at the Waynesville Armory. The dance opened the five-day Fourth annual Haywood Tobacco Harvest Festival. Mr. Burgin represented the Waynesville Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Watts, the Waynesville chapter of the National Secretaries' Association. Fifty-five firms were represented in the Wheelbarrow Promenade. The two organizations sponsored the dance.

When near thy dwelling comes no plague nor blight. When boding ill's forecast no coming night. When to thy riches each day addeth more, Say not, "My hand hath gotten me this wealth!" Remember who it is that gives thee power, The cunning hand and brain, the glow of health— Receive them humbly as God's free-will dower. To boasting give no place! Thine own is all of grace. In everything give thanks!

Silhouetting Slim Slips

Black nylon satin and lace.

By VERA WINSTON

A radical change in clothes silhouette usually demands an overhauling of the lingerie department. And this season is no exception what with the sheath-slim dresses demanding equally avelte lines right through to the foundation garment. Black nylon satin is used for an elegant slip that smartly hews to the new lines. Two godets of black nylon lace, to match the bodice, are placed in front from the knee to the hem to allow for plenty of ease in motion. The skirt is gored all around with a set-in bias section at the waist for better fit.
