Radio Program On Organizations Public Welfare Work Scheduled

The second of two broadcasts explaining the work of the Public Welfare Department will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Friday over Radio Station WHCC. The 15-minute program will tell the history of the North Carolina Board of Public Welfare and the services it offers. The first of the broadcasts, which are produced by the Resource Use Education Commission, was staged last Friday night.

Organizations Launch Drive For Local Needy

The First Methodist Church of Waynesville will be open Sunday afternoon to receive the gifts of food and clothing contributed by the people of Waynesville. On Sunday night, the combined choirs of the four churches will present the annual Christmas Cantata. It will start at 7:30 p.m. with Mrs. Fred Martin of the First Methodist Church Choir directing. The Waynesville Secretaries' Association and the Waynesville Junior Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Baptist, Methodist, Episcopal, and Presbyterian Churches of Waynesville, are campaigning to bring Christmas cheer to the community's needy families. In a joint announcement in connection with the Christmas Cheer campaign, Charlie Woodard, president of the Junior Chamber, and Miss Mary Medford, president of the Waynesville Secretaries' Association, said: "We have a long list of needy families in this community, so anything you can bring in (Sunday afternoon at the church) will be appreciated. "The Methodist Men's Club is offering to help with the distribution. "But if there are any others who would like to volunteer a car and some time, you may call Miss Joy Woody at 129."

LIVE IN A SIEVE? WHO-ME?

Many folks don't realize that uninsulated walls and ceilings "leak" costly furnace heat "like a sieve".

You can quickly end this heat loss and the shivering discomfort that goes with it, too! Here's how:
