Beef Cattle Men Predict Bright Future For Cattle

A five-point beef cattle program has been adopted under the Community Development program in Haywood, with M. O. Galloway as chairman. The first observation of the commission is that the outlook for beef cattle, handled on a sound basis, is good. The commission then goes on with the following formal suggestions: 1. The biggest need facing the beef cattle industry in Haywood County is the increase in the number of beef cattle on the farms. 2. The following ways were suggested for working with the beef cattle industry in the county during 1951: a) Hold a Beef Cattle School in January or February on outlook, diseases, feeding, pastures, management, etc. with specialists from State College and the North Carolina Department of Agriculture assisting. b) Following this school up with meetings in the communities during the day on castrating, dehorning, delousing, judging, etc. and at night hold promotional meetings with members of the Beef Cattle Commission giving facts on what can be done to improve the beef cattle business. Since beef cattle is our largest income, it was recommended that more emphasis be placed on it during the coming year. c) Hold a Beef Cattle Judging School with representatives of the out-going boys in July. d) Work with the different breeders in putting a Beef Cattle Tour during the summer and in putting on promotional sales. e) Put on two calf sales of heifer and steer calves in local communities, with a few good commercial bulls in these sales. 3. Encourage 4-H and FFA members in their baby beef projects for the coming year for the Western North Carolina Fat Stock Show. 4. Have beef cattle stops on community tours. b) Have beef cattle stops on county and out-of-state tours. c) Promote the use of better bulls, especially on commercial cow herds. d) Stress the importance of Ladino clover and orchard grass pastures in the economical production of beef cattle. e) Stress the importance of better feeding in the winter, by the use of silage and good legume hay, but less concentrates. f) Assist and encourage the selling of steers cooperatively direct to terminal markets, having steers graded if possible. This would mean working with neighbors to make up car loads for shipping at one time. 4. It was recommended that more emphasis be placed on the grade cow herd, with a good purebred bull, and raising the calves for market or saving for older steers. This is the soundest way to be in the beef cattle business, and it should be emphasized and brought to the attention of all people the importance of keeping good heifer calves in the county. 5. Some suggestions in operating a grade cow herd are as follows: a) Have all calves dropped in the early spring instead of during the entire year if possible. b) Dehorn and castrate calves early. By two months of age. c) Use a good beef-type bull. GOALS: Have a purebred beef-type bull of the right type in every commercial herd in the county. Keep all beef-type heifer calves in the county to increase the number of females.
