TEEN TALK

Dear Judge

Dating tonight? Is it a first-date? An old-flame? A blind date?

No matter what—the important thing is where you meet him. Many girls meet their dates on dark corners, at parked cars, even in movies. If it is a first date you certainly are establishing a bad precedent. If it is a steady date, he can't have much respect for you. And if it is a blind date, you are being a fool.

If you want respect from the boy and also prefer not to live dangerously, the boy should meet you at your home, get the family scanning and observe the family interest.

Just suppose you meet a new boy at a party and he asks if he might phone you some time. Fine. No objection to that.

When he calls for a date, ask him what he is planning to do, and what time he plans to call for you. If he suggests that you meet him at a place other than your home, act surprised, and then insist in a nice way that he come to your home.

Inform your family that you want them to meet your new date. Even if Mom can talk the ear off a china doll, and Pop is addicted to displaying his suspenders, you should invite them into the living room to meet your new beau. This is more for your protection than it is to show off your parents. The impression you make this first day is all-important to you in earning the respect of the boy.

When he arrives at your home, take his hat and coat, seat him in the living room, and then invite your parents in to meet him.

Say something informal and casual which will put him at ease, such as: "Bill, mother and dad want to say hello to you," then after the introductions say: "Mom, (or Pop) we are planning to go to the movies (or elsewhere) and I think we should be home at 10:30 or 11 or... what do you think Bill?" It is a good idea to have him set the hour while your parents are in the room; then he'll be sure to bring you home on the dot.

After the young man has visited a few minutes, say goodbye to your folks and be off.

This little family meeting breaks the ice, shows the boy your respect for your family interest in you. If he approves of it, and his motives are strictly honorable, he'll want to see you again. If he is just the playboy type, he might set himself out to wilder pastures—and if so, you haven't missed a thing.

If he entertains you nicely, not necessarily lavishly, that first evening, ask if he'd like to come to dinner or Sunday supper (perhaps a week hence). Don't be eager-beaverish about it, but say something like this, when he asks to

Whitefish Envoy To Korea

WHITEFISH, Mont.—(AP)—The Whitefish Chamber of Commerce has a new branch in Korea. John F. Joy, Whitefish locomotive engineer serving with a railroad outfit near Taejeon, wrote chamber president Shirley Lincoln.

"I have been accused of being the chamber of commerce for the state of Montana because of my continual talking about it. I would appreciate any literature you could send me so I could proudly display it."

The chamber hastily sent printed matter, informed Joy that he is now official envoy to Korea and told him to invite anyone he sees to visit Whitefish—anyone south of the 38th parallel.

ous bandit, Joaquin Murrieta.

7. The Pony Express, by Samuel Hopkins Adams.

A history of the "Pony" with stories of the "bad men" outlaws, and Indians who were a constant threat to the mail riders.

8. Lee and Grant at Appomattox, by MacKinlay Kantor.

The story of Lee and Grant and the peace negotiations at Appomattox. The author follows the anxious exchange of early negotiations—Grant's repeated demands for surrender, Lee's reluctant pleas for terms, a last minute truce, and the final meeting at Appomattox.

9. The Building of the First Transcontinental Railroad, by Adrie Nathan.

The story of the men who helped build the transcontinental railroad. Others who appear are President Lincoln, Theodore Dehone Judah, and Leland Stanford. Here too are the workers racing across country with their rails, and fighting the mountains, the weather, the Indians, and each other.

10. The Wright Brothers: Pioneers of American Aviation, by Quentin Reynolds.

The story of how these two Americans—who made their living running a bicycle shop—invented, built and flew the first airplane.

Dean Stockwell, posing as a little Hindu beggar, demonstrates his skill before Errol Flynn in "Kim," M-G-M's vivid filmization of Rudyard Kipling's classic story of romance, adventure and intrigue, coming at the Strand Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The new picture is hailed as the first major Hollywood production ever to be filmed in India against authentic locales.

see you again: "How would you like to have dinner at our house (before the party or movie or dance)?" It is possible that he might refuse because of shyness, although few boys are ever too shy to turn down a dinner invitation. If he does turn you down, wait until he gets to know the family better before inviting him again. Even if your first date is a boy whom you decide you never want to see again, you haven't lost a thing by being polite and holding out for your feminine privilege in asking him to call for you. If you don't like him after that first date, don't see him again. You still haven't lost anything in time or effort if you give him the gate at once, but don't be a time waster and see him just because you feel sorry for him or he means well.
