Lime, Arts and Crafts by Mrs. Ed Harkins, Home Beautification by Miss Carrie Holtzclaw and Mrs. W. C. Moody Gardens by Mrs. W. L. Ammons. Mrs. Ammons also gave plans for the garden contest and announced that a prize would be given to the homemaker who grows the largest variety of vegetables for her home garden. Mrs. L. J. Cannon reported an Education and Mrs. Malcolm Crisp had charge of the recreation in which Mrs. L. J. Cannon won the prize. The demonstration on "Selecting and Hanging Pictures" was given by the Home Agent.

The club adjourned to meet with Mrs. J. C. Lime with Mrs. Glenn Williams as co-hostess.

Ancient war chariots had no springs, the body being mounted directly on the axle.

Smart Line

Silk taffeta frock.

By VERA WINSTON

THE slim-as-a-reed silhouette, softened by clever dressmaker details is a smart line to take this spring. This is especially true when the dress is fashioned of a fine fabric and lends itself to clever fabrics, such as the model here. It is of gray silk taffeta and has button detail that permits the buttoning on of silk organdy pleated jackets at neck and hem. The simple collarless neckline has a front buttoned closing. The buttoned band at the side hem completes the detail.

Saunook Club Has Monthly Meeting With Mrs. Beck

The Cornwall Club of Saunook met at the home of Mrs. Charles Beck, on Monday night, March 26th, with Mrs. James McClure, President, in charge of the meeting.

During the business session, new officers named were: Mrs. Julia McClure, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Herbert Singletary, assistant secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Guy Queen, Historian. The Club also decided upon their Achievement Day theme and the following committee was named to work out details: Mrs. Julia McClure, chairman; Mrs. Charles Beck, Mrs. Leon Cross, Mrs. Herbert Stephens and Mrs. Herbert Singletary. Mrs. Steve Plimmons gave a report on the secretaries' meeting and the club voted to accept the recommendations given.

Leaders' reports were heard from Mrs. Philip Chase on Home Management, Mrs. Leon Cross on House Furnishings, Mrs. James Garrett on Arts and Crafts, Mrs. Herbert Singletary on Family Life and on Food Preservation, Mrs. Julia McClure on Home Beautification.

Book reports were heard from Guy Queen, Mrs. Herbert Singletary, Mrs. Charles Beck, Mrs. Steve Plimmons.

The demonstration on "Selecting and Hanging Pictures" was given by the Home Agent.

The Club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Leon Cross in April.

Bethel Juniors Will Present Minstrel

The junior class of Bethel High School will present "The Lazy Moon Minstrel," Friday night, April 6, at 8 p. m., under the direction of Mrs. Dellmar Phoenix.

The two-act minstrel features "Mammy" and "Pappy" and the whole plantation as they welcome home their 'chillun,' who have become famous radio and television entertainers and are on their way to a big Miami hotel. The visitors rehearse their show in the cabin yard under a lazy southern moon, and follow it with a blackface farce.

The public is invited to attend.

Tom Gibson is here from Wake Forest College to spend the spring vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson.

Gibson Girl Influence

Three-piece wool outfit.

By VERA WINSTON

RECENTLY there was an exhibit of original Gibson Girl drawings, and more than one designer seemed fascinated by the Gibson lovelies dressed for yachting. So what do we find touted for southern resort wear but clothes quite reminiscent of the yachting costume of the 1890's. This one combines a red and white and blue striped lightweight wool skirt, smocked of yoke and knife-pleated. Worn with it is a navy jersey blouse with high, round neck and short sleeves. A short, boxy white flannel jacket completes the outfit.
