God's Wonderful Creation

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 1-2; Psalm 104; John 1:1-5.

In the beginning the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep.

God said, Let there be light; and there was light, and God divided the light from the darkness.

And God said, Let the earth bring forth grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit.

And God made the beasts of the earth and everything that creepeth.

MEMORIAL VERSE—Psalm 104:24.

Reading to Your Child Will Establish Nice Relationship

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

OFTEN in this column I've entreated parents to read to the young child and to keep on reading to him after he enters school, with the hope of reading to one another in the family by and by, just for companionship and pleasure. In my bulletin "Books from Which to Read to the Baby and Young Child" (to be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this paper) I give seventeen reasons for reading to the child. One of these reasons is the gain in ease and forcefulness of speech and writing by the parent who does the reading. Usually the very kind of stories young children like to hear, are told in simple, direct and effective style. February 12 was Lincoln's birthday. From the time when he learned to read he was continually reading aloud even when alone. After he began to practice law he often read aloud.

It's wonderful when various members of the family read to one another some news item from the local paper, some joke or unusual statement or idea, some beautiful verses or paragraphs of prose or whole chapters of a book. It can be a delightful companionship.

Younger Parents
Some of us shared in such experiences of reading and listening when we were children and when we were younger parents with our own children. Few memories are to me more precious than of when one of our own children at 8, 10 or 15 would read aloud something from a story he was reading for mere fun or from a book of reading assigned at school. Often this was just blurted out with the hope that someone would listen appreciatively. I can also remember happily hearing my grandfather reading from the Bible to my grandmother while she was mending or doing other work with her hands. Often I would choose to listen for a long while. One pair of grandparents of our children used to read every evening to each other from the Bible and often there were many younger listeners.

Modern invention and ways in homes today—television, radio, and somebody always in a hurry to go somewhere—don't encourage this reading to one another. Nevertheless, there still are homes of leisure around the fireside, where all the family are together on some or many evenings; there are some such homes from which the world is shut out for long periods at a stretch.

There could be more such homes if more parents saw the values of such and cultivated pleasure of listening in the child from his very early years by reading and reading and reading to him. Fortunately more and more teachers are reading aloud in the schoolroom for the children's enjoyments and more children are learning at school to read aloud and are practiced there at reading to one another.

South Clyde Group Do Many Improvements On Pleasant Hill Cemetery

MRS. MAUDE OSBORNE
Mountaineer Reporter

The South Clyde Community Development program met at Louisa Chapel, on March 26th, with Lloyd Justice in charge of the devotional. The meeting opened with singing of several hymns, and the reading of the scripture by Donald Jackson, and Massie Osborne. Mrs. Robert Lindsey led in prayer.

Mrs. Kyle Lindsey was at the piano.
William Osborne, chairman, presided during the business session. He gave details for the bloodbank which will be in the county on April 7th. The citizens of South Clyde will donate blood at Bethel, from 10 to 10:30 a. m., and from 2 to 2:30 p. m. Volunteers are sought and can accompany the many who have already volunteered to give blood on the 7th.

Chairman Osborne reported that much progress has been made in scattering lime at Pleasant Hill Cemetery, which is one of the major projects of the community. After the business session, a spelling bee was held, with Sam Jackson, and Mrs. Maude Osborne choosing sides. Mrs. Osborne and her co-spellers won. Refreshments were served after the spelling bee.

Mr. and Mrs. James Willard and son from Pendleton, S. C., visited their mother, Mrs. Dove Willard. Also Mr. and Mrs. Ray Willard visited their mother who has moved from Camden, S. C. to Brevard to take a new job.

Rev. and Mrs. V. N. Allen have gone to Texas to take Mrs. Allen's sister.

Messrs. Carter and William Osborne and Ernestine and Lou Osborne have returned from High Springs, Florida where they were called by the sudden death of Mr. James Boney. Mrs. Boney was the former Miss Mattie Wood of Miss Katherine Osborne in Florida for a longer visit her sister.

Mrs. Harlie Burris and have returned to Detroit spending several weeks with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samsen.

Donald Jackson spent last in Detroit. He was accompanied home by his brother Newtonson.

We are glad to report the Hascue Haynes is improving Haywood County Hospital.

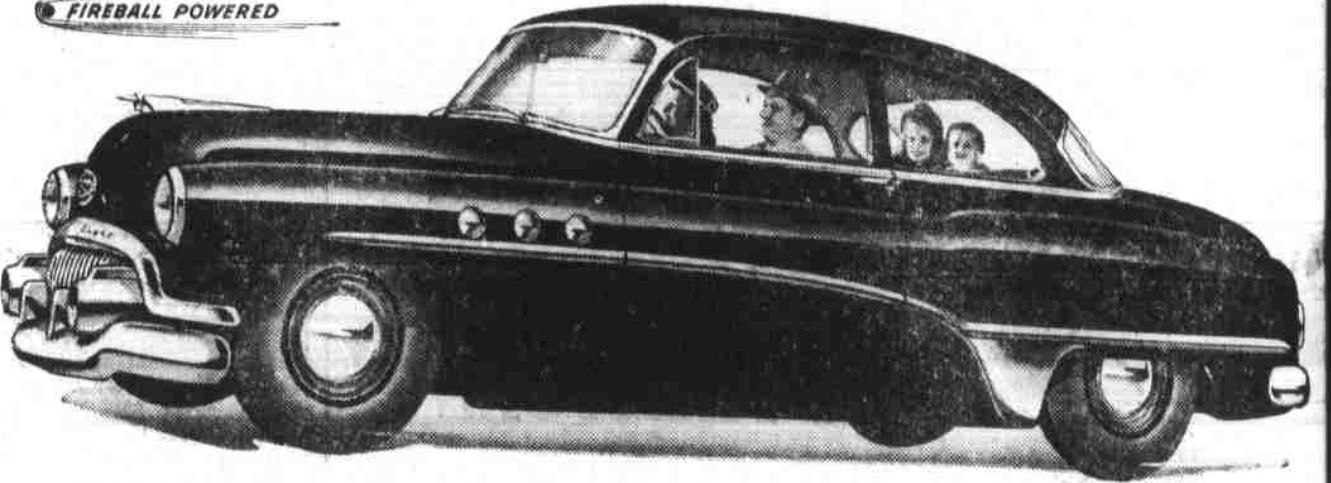

Miss Lucille Cathey, Weston-Salem is visiting her parents, Mrs. Thad Cathey Miss Cathey with the Winston-Salem Journal.

The choir of the Clyde church gave a cantata Easter day evening, with Mrs. Chapman, organist. Several numbers were given by the women's chorus, as well as men's chorus, and the choir.

Those making up the club include: Miss Angelle Anderson, J. W. Winfrey, Mrs. Horace Brown, D. D. Gross, Miss D. Brown, Miss Betty Joyce Mann, Mrs. Richard Hannah Amos Medford, Mrs. Sidney Ames, Mrs. Elmer Goodson, Haynes, Sidney Haynes, Glenn Brown, Milton Brown, London Birch.
