Berea College is a non-sectarian, co-educational institution that maintains three schools—a college department, a high school unit, and a nurses' training school. The college was established in 1855 primarily for the purpose of serving worthy youth from the mountain areas of eight Southern states. More than ninety per cent of the enrollment comes from this designated territory.

A labor schedule is provided for all students. This enables them to work all or a part of their school expenses. Both the college and high school are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Dr. F. S. Hutchins is president of the college.

Mark Galloway Issues Statement About Wreck

Mark Galloway, well known lumberman who was injured Tuesday morning as his car was demolished on the Southern Railway tracks, issued a statement through his employer, The Builders Supply Company, relative to the accident. Mr. Galloway is still in the Mission Hospital suffering from injuries received in the wreck.

Mr. Galloway said: "I did not know that the train was coming. I've been making that turn for 17 years without seeing a train there. It must have been coasting for I didn't hear any engine noise, its whistle or its bell. That crossing is so bad, the street is so close to the tracks, that you have to turn completely around or get on the tracks before you can see anything coming from the same direction. I didn't have the slightest idea a train was near until it hit me." The brief but official report filed by Francis Reece, police officer who investigated the accident, at the police station is as follows: "Car and locomotive were both going west. Car was on Richland Street which runs parallel to the Southern Railroad tracks. Car was a few yards ahead of train and apparently not aware of same. On reaching intersection of Richland and Charles Streets, car made a right turn in front of oncoming train."

Since the accident occurred two civic clubs have protested to Southern Railroad about the dangerous crossing, and have demanded that some action be taken to correct conditions there.

White Oak Woman Honored At Dinner For Poultry Raisers

MRS. GEORGE BORING
Mountaineer Reporter

Several from this community attended the chicken dinner served by the Farmers Co-op at the Crabtree High School last week. Mrs. Sallie Sutton, who has gone into hatching egg business in a big way, was paid high tribute when introduced. She was the only person having 90 per cent production last year, and she does all the work herself. We hope as time goes on that more people on White Oak will follow in her footsteps and do likewise. Those attending were Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. Sherrill Teague, Henry F. Teague, Janie Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and Mr. and

Mrs. George Boring.

Fifteen 4-H Clubsters attended their meeting Friday night at the Community House. The usual business was attended to under the direction of the president, Roslyn Messer. They then practiced on their play and program that they are planning on presenting at a later community meeting. There will be another practice night next Friday night, November 2, at the Community House.

The young folks then played games out-of-doors for a while, working up an appetite for the refreshments which were served later.

Pvt. David Teague returned Thursday to Camp Pickett, Va. If anyone doesn't think that time flies, just ask a service man who has a ten-day leave at home.
