The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over white satin. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves, ending in calla points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was fashioned of nylon tulle with panel inserts of Chantilly lace. The finger-tip veil of nylon illusion was caught to a pearl embroidered Chantilly lace cap and she carried a cascade bouquet of white rosebuds and fluer d'amour, centered with a white orchid.

The attendants wore identical dresses in a new fall shade of green, fashioned with strapless bodice of lace over taffeta, and bouffant taffeta skirts and taffeta stoles. They wore bands of green taffeta leaves in their hair and carried bouquets of American Beauty roses. The flower girl wore white net over white taffeta and carried a white satin-covered basket.
