"I believe scientists can get more food from the remaining soil, but how can this extra food be spread to feed the entire world?"

"Starving people are a perfect people for Communist propaganda, and that is what is happening in India. Even in the deepest jungle villages a few months ago I found that the communists had planted their seed with those starving people, who are actually eating bark from the trees in the forests."

"I do not feel that America can get too far by continuing to give food free—the people are afraid that there are strings attached to the gift, and they will eventually have to forfeit their freedom if they accept too much."

"Many people who have been given free hand-outs by America feel that the people in the United States are millionaires, and are passing out the free food for a purpose. What America must do is to prove to the world that she does not want to expand."

snack bar, and recreational facilities. It will be used by young people for jurisdictional and conference meetings and training programs, and by the more than 100 high school and college students who reside and work at Lake Junaluska each summer.

The structure itself will cost approximately $75,000, and $25,000 is to be allocated for furnishings and special equipment. The fund campaign will run through 1955 if necessary, the Rev. Mr. Tuttle said, beamed at individuals rather than churches. The $25,000 received to date includes nearly $11,000 raised on "Junaluska Sunday," August 1, by Bishop Costen J. Harrell, Charlotte, at Lake Junaluska. Every Methodist bishop has contributed.

"The need of such a center at Lake Junaluska has long been recognized," the Rev. Mr. Tuttle said. "Our young people, both employees and delegates from throughout the South, comprise one of our largest groups and it is here probably that more Methodist youth make decisions for full-time church work than at any other place."
