pine trees. When timber owners notice the needles of their pine trees turning brown, they are urged to call the county agent's office so that the cause can be identified and proper recommendations made.

Some sprays are effective against the pine beetle, but are rather expensive.

County Farm Agent Virgil L. Holloway explained that the dry weather of the past several years has been a major factor in slowing the flow of sap and allowing the pine beetle to attack trees without being drowned by the sap.

"Plenty of rain will do more than anything else to cut damage by the pine beetles," Mr. Holloway asserted.

Farmers were also urged to plant white pine on eroded land or land not returning a good profit, and were instructed on the proper methods of transplanting, pruning, and selective cutting of white pine.

"Lieutenant," means one who takes the place of another, comes from the French word "lieu" (place) and "tenant" (holding).

'Take Conservation Out Of Politics,' Lions Club Told

"Conservation must be taken out of politics," Andrew Jones of Franklin told the Waynesville Lions Club at a meeting Thursday night at Spaldon's Restaurant.

"Conservation is a science," he asserted, "and an adequate program of conservation can be carried out only by well-trained personnel with the support of an informed public."

Citing Egypt and China as examples, Mr. Jones said that these two countries once had forests and sufficient top soil, but let these valuable resources waste away through neglect and failure to utilize proper conservation.

The speaker related that conservation officials in this country are engaged constantly in scientific studies to protect soil, forests, wildlife, and water.

Commenting on the latter, Mr. Jones asked: "What right do industrial plants have to receive pure water and then discharge it in waste form to pollute our streams?"

The Franklin man appeared at the Lions Club here in connection with an exchange program put on by the Macon County Club. Last Monday the Waynesville Lions barbershop quartet and harmonica player Lawrence B. Leatherwood presented a program for the Franklin Lions.

A special guest at the meeting Thursday night was Pedro Chiriboga, president of the Lions Club in Guayaquil, Ecuador, who brought greetings from his country. Senor Chiriboga was in Waynesville on business at the Welco Shoe Corp.

President Joe S. Cline was in charge of the meeting.
