3-Point Program Asked By NCEA For Next Year

The first endorsement of the three-point legislative program of the North Carolina Education Association came today from the legislative committee of the Division of Classroom Teachers of the NCEA.

The three-point program endorsed by the Classroom Teachers is: (1) A salary scale of $2600 to $4100 for a four year college graduate with an A certificate;

(2) An extended term of employment of two weeks for teachers and principals;

(3) Clerical assistance for schools.

The NCEA program stated, "The imperative need of public education is to provide an adequate number of properly qualified teachers." The Classroom Teacher endorsement emphasized this need.

"The legislative committee of the Classroom Teacher Division gives unanimous endorsement to the program, for we believe that each of the three points will help attract promising young people into the profession," stated Mrs. J. L. Maroon, chairman, Classroom Teacher legislative committee, Needham Broughton High, Raleigh.

The first point in the program, teacher salary, was named by the classroom teachers as the best means by which to relieve the alarming shortage of qualified teachers. "Good teachers realize that salaries must be increased if promising young people are to enter and remain in the profession," said one member of the committee. "We must ask for increased income, or we can never compete with business and other professions for the type personnel that the children of North Carolina deserve as teachers."

The additional needs named by the NCEA as essential to the improvement of education also received the endorsement of the classroom teachers.

DAVID R. MEIER has been named technical service manager for the Dayton Rubber Company's foam rubber division, it is announced by G. V. Soper, sales manager.
