

M. Kerney Hipps Dies At 56 Of Heart Attack

M. Kerney Hipps, 56, of Canton died at his home about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday following a heart attack. He was a retired Champion Paper and Fibre Co. worker and was a member of the Champion Old Timers Club, the Plains Methodist Church and a former teacher of the church's adult Sunday School class.

He was a veteran of World War I and was a member of the 30th Signal Company, N. C. National Guard, until his illness a few years ago forced him to give up this activity.

He was a native of Haywood County and a life-long resident of Canton, a son of the late Malley K. Hipps and Hester Williams Hipps of Haywood County.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Addie Plemont Hipps; two sons, Philip in the Navy at Norfolk, Va., and Carlson of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Joe Medford of Canton, and Mrs. James Shope of Candler, N. C.; a half-brother, Bruce Fowler of Sanford, Fla.; three half-sisters, Mrs. Selma Hall of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Bari Carlin of Fort Acres, Texas, and Mrs. George Bahks of Canton; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Plains Methodist Church at 3 p.m. today with the Rev. Ben Lee Ray and the Rev. Ivan Roberts officiating.

Burial was in the church cemetery. Pallbearers were Clayton Burnett, Elmer Keener, Joyce Owen, Fonzo Mann, Mark Wallin and Bill Allen.

Honorary pallbearers were members of the men's adult Sunday School class of the church. Flower bearers were of the women's adult Sunday School class.

Rime Lingers Longer In Area Than Ever Before

By MRS. JOHN JOHNSON
Community Reporter

So far we haven't escaped the cold weather. For almost a week the trees on the mountain tops were white with frozen fog. Some of the old timers say they have never seen it remain so long before.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hargrove had as their weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hargrove and daughter, Vickie, of Charleston, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hargrove of Charlotte, PFC Troy Hargrove of Ft. Knox, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clark and daughter, Gail, of Asheville.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Terrell and Hugh K. Terrell, Jr., and Mrs. L. M. Sherrill recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moore of Atlanta.

The Cecil Home Demonstration Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Sorrells on Lovejoy Road Wednesday at 2 p.m. An invitation is extended to prospective members.

The Rev. Frank Brown of Asheville, pastor of the Bethel Presbyterian Church, is on a two-week vacation in Florida. Dr. McClure of Asheville will fill the pulpit in his absence.

Mrs. Clyde Sumner of Malden, Wash., Mrs. Fletch Frady, and Mrs. Herman Brown of Asheville recently visited their cousin, Mrs. John Cathey, on Lovejoy Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Dingleline and daughter, formerly of Battle Creek, Mich., have moved into their new home on the J. D. Justice farm.

Walter Long of Lovejoy and Bert Wahlgreen of Waynesville have completed their new machine shop in Waynesville and are now at work.

Anderson Huskey is improving after an illness of several days. Mrs. John Cathey is able to be out again after having the flu.

Annual UDC Contest Is Set For Tuesday

The annual declamation contest, sponsored by the Haywood Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in observance of Lee-Jackson Day, will be held in the Waynesville High School auditorium Tuesday, January 24, at 9:45 a.m.

Contestants will be junior high school boys. Mrs. C. F. Kirkpatrick is president of the sponsoring group.

U. S. Capitol Page School Hoping For New Quarters

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Every time they pass the slowly rising structure on Capitol Hill that is to be the new Senate Office Building, Principal Henry De Keyser and his Capitol Page School pupils keep their fingers crossed.

A suite of six rooms plus an office have been set aside in the new building for the high school level classes, first organized in 1931. Up to now it has been held in makeshift quarters, first in the basement of the Capitol Building and more recently in the third-floor former cafeteria of the Congressional Library. De Keyser and his boys fear something may happen to take their new quarters away from them.

The school for the 30 pages of the Senate, House and Supreme Court, ranging in age from 14 to 18 was set up so the boys would not lose out on their high school courses. Classes begin at 8:30 a.m., and continue through 10:30, when the boys go to work.

The school is accredited by the Middle States Assn. Costs are paid by the District of Columbia.

Though parents and sponsors can keep a check on the boys' scholastic standing through report cards issued to both, considerable concern is being expressed over their lack of supervision during their out-of-school, off-job hours. Several members of Congress in the past have introduced legislation to set up a dormitory or home.

Rep. Ruth Thompson (R-Mich) says she will introduce another bill recommending supervised housing under one roof. "These boys mostly come from out in the sticks and suddenly find themselves on their own with money galore," she said. "They're not vicious, or bad. It's a matter of getting them properly adjusted to an entirely different life."

Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla), who introduced the original legislation, says it is up to members of Congress who bring the boys here to assume responsibility for their housing, supervision and some discipline. No one, he says, supervises their eating, free-time occupation, regulation of hours or physical well-being.

In 1846, the Donner Party set out across Utah and Nevada for California. They took a short cut to California, and the story of their hardships has become a part of history. Mrs. Lofts' novel tells of a group of people engaged in just such a venture.

The Highwayman
Gerson

A novel of Americans in King George's War (1744-1748). William Pepperrell and his daughter Mercy were held up and robbed while on their way from Maine to the Governor's Banquet in Boston. Later, when she met the handsome Jacques Duppan at the dinner, she was convinced that he was the highwayman. The attack on Louisbourg by the colonists is one of the high spots of the story.
