Roy R. Beck Is Speaker At Garden Club

Roy R. Beck, work unit conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Richland Garden Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. James L. Elwood.

Speaking on Soil Conservation, Beck stated that much of the economic progress of the United States is due to agricultural development He explained North Carolina's soil and water conservation program and how supervisors help land owners plan a soil program. He also pointed out the increase in land income from these practices. In stressing the importance of conserving and resources, Beck said. "The history of all nations starts in bondage - then to courage, liberty, abundance, selfishness, complacency, apathy, and back to bondage."

The speaker was introduced by Miss Lou Elva Eller, who was in charge of the program.

Mrs. W. F. Swift presided during the business session. Reports on Christmas projects of the club were given by Mrs. E. C. Wagenfeld on hospital decorations, Miss Nancy Killian on decorations at the nursing home; Mrs. R. H. Stretcher on the outdoor decoration contest, and Miss Eller on decorations at the Haywood County library.

Mrs. Rufus Siler announced that Mrs. S. W. Jabaut, a former mem-ber of the club, had placed a book on gardening in the county library and had planted a pink dogwood tree at the health center in memor of her husband, the late Dr. Jabaut

Miss Louise Ballard announced an executive meeting of the Garden Club of North Carolina to be held this week in Pinehurst and also stated that the National Garden Club is publishing a handbook on conservation projects. She read an article by John Parris on the Cherokee Botanical Garden.

Members were asked to pick up vases which had been left at the library.

Announcement was made that Don Ogden of Asheville, landscape architect, will be the speaker at the February meeting to be held in the home of Mrs. E. C. Wagen-
