New Art Gallery Caters To Both Buyers, Browsers

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The collectors, the critics, the curious are all made to feel at ease when they drop into the little modern art gallery on a side street in Washington's Georgetown section.

The two young matrons, who opened the Obelisk Gallery of Art several years ago, are just as happy to welcome the browser as the buyer. One of the chief reasons for launching the venture was to encourage Americans to get into the habit of looking at pictures and to foster an interest in contemporary art.

UDC To Meet With Mrs. Davis

The Haywood Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will meet Friday at 3:30 p. m. at the Walnut Street home of Mrs. Grover C. Davis.

Mrs. Millard Ferguson will read and discuss "Old Letters of Confederate Veterans," and Mrs. Frank Moore will give a magazine review.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. T. L. Bramlett and Mrs. Millard Ferguson.

Waynesville Girls To Participate In Piano Contest

Six Waynesville piano students will take part in the Cullowhee District Piano Contest to be held Saturday in the gallery of Hunter Library at Western Carolina College. They are Rosalind Ammons, Linda Boone and Libby Smathers, in the senior division; and Ann Dullin, Gail Kirkpatrick and Betty Owen in the junior division.

Senior division pianists who make a superior rating will be eligible to compete in the state contest in Greensboro April 21.

Dr. Richard Renfro, music department head of the college, said the contest is sponsored by the North Carolina Music Educators Association and the campus chapter will be host.

Flitcher Moore, chairman of the department of fine arts at Elon College, will be judge.

Arnold Penland, Jr. of Arden is general chairman of student groups which handle the contest details.

MISS ANNE REECE of Clinton, Ohio, will become the bride on May 19 of Ned Ledbetter of Hazelwood. The ceremony will take place in the Akron Baptist Temple in Akron, Ohio and will be performed by the Rev. Paul Outlow. Miss Reece is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Reece of Clinton. Mr. Ledbetter is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Ledbetter and the late Horace Ledbetter.
