Gay Overalls Add Glamor For Women In Gardens

By DOROTHY ROE, Associated Press Women's Editor
THIS IS THE SEASON when gardeners from Maine to California put away the seed catalogs and start looking over the gardening tools. Whether your garden consists of a few flowers or an acre of vegetables, the day you get out the trowel, is the first day of spring or you. If you are going to be a gardener, you might as well be dressed for the job. Sewing center experts suggest you make a couple of gay and practical one-piece coveralls for outdoor chores. Made of flower-printed cotton with a dry-smooth finish, they can be tossed in the washing machine and worn next day without ironing. The finish is dirt resistant too, meaning that dirt will not get down into the fibers. You can make the coveralls in both mother and daughter sizes from standard patterns. It saves time to cut two at once and sew them on the assembly line plan. Thus you will find that it doesn't take much longer to make two garments than it does to make one. The one-piece overall suggested has an open shirt collar and peddle pusher length pants. It is zipped all the way down the front, and may have a gay sash or belt of contrasting color. Look pretty in the garden and you will find the work is more fun — especially when you don't have to worry about the laundry.

GAY COVERALLS... Right for the gardener is this overall in flower-printed, dry-smooth cotton which needs no ironing. Easy to make at home for both grown ups and small-fry gardeners.

Attaches' Wives Stage Gala Shindig

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Tulips from Holland, silver from Guatemala, bears and beer from Australia, even caviar and perfume from Russia, were featured in exhibits from 24 nations at a gala shindig put on by wives of military attaches from foreign nations stationed here. The colorful affair was staged for members of the nearby Fort Myer (Va) Women's Club, whose luncheon meetings the attaches' wives regularly attend. Arts and crafts, recipe books, pamphlets and exotic foods were displayed at small tables presided over by the visitors, all wearing picturesque native costumes. Mrs. Cemalettin Enginsoy, wife of the Turkish military attaché wore a beautifully silver-embroidered dress of purple velvet and a gold fez-shaped hat with a gold-bordered "scarlet" "mashlik" (veil) that covered all of her face except her luminous dark eyes. One of the items on her table was a coverlet of palest pink silk embroidered in silver and edged with exquisite lace which she explained had been a traditional gift in her trousseau. Mrs. S. Salem from Egypt showed the women how to use the "Mokagla," the gadget which holds the smoky black powder Egyptian women employ to outline and beautify their eyes. Mrs. N. V. Kolkina, wife of the Russian military attaché, was inviting guests to help themselves to the luscious black caviar and sweets from her table and to sniff the flower-scented perfume from her country. She also offered little samplings of the famed Soviet thirst-quencher, the potent vodka. In addition to the tulips on the table presided over by Mrs. W. T. Carp of the Netherlands, there were Delft ware, chocolate and cheeses. Also on hand to help were the wife of the assistant Netherlands military attaché, Mrs. Van Epen, and her young son, Gerard, in farm boy costume with wooden shoes, and daughter Ena, with a pretty, full-skirted costume.

Careful Planning Saves Cost Of Remodeling

Remodeling can be more expensive than it need be. And chances are it will be if you don't plan carefully before you begin work. It costs nothing to plan and replan, and only by careful planning will you be able to have just the type of home you want, according to Pauline E. Gordon, State College Extension specialist in housing and house furnishings. Remodeling or building is too expensive not to warrant detailed planning of what your family wants. And according to Miss Gordon, family planning is important since the kind of home in which you live helps to develop the personality of all persons living within it. Long-time planning will save you both money and inconvenience. Plan work on your home that can be done over a period of years and then do some work each year as you have the money to pay for it, suggests Miss Gordon. All of your family will enjoy contributing some labor to cut costs further. If you're planning more storage space, Miss Gordon advises you to consider wall to wall storage. List the articles to be stored in the space allotted, then plan shelf and drawer areas to accommodate them. It's easier to keep house when there's a place to put all the things needed by the family. According to Miss Gordon, the most convenient height to reach is from the tip of the fingers to the top of the shoulders. Store articles used most often in this area. Those used less frequently can be placed lower or higher. topped by a hand-embroidered "volendam," typical Dutch hat. French exhibits included perfumes, champagne and gloves. Delicate lace, jewelry, coconut cakes and samplings of green coffee were featured on the Brazilian table, while the Canadian exhibit was highlighted with woollens, Canadian whiskey and a tray of real gold dust.

We Invite You To Trade With Us For Your Farm Needs FERTILIZERS INSECTICIDES FEEDS SEEDS

★ WE DELIVER

Anywhere In Haywood County

★ "Trade With The Man Who Trades With You"

In our 19 years of serving the farmers of Haywood County we have made many new friends and renewed many old friendships. We have had business dealings with thousands of people from every community in Western North Carolina — we have sold feeds, seeds, fertilizers and other related items, and in return, have bought from the farmers of Haywood and other Western North Carolina counties, hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of vegetables, fruits, poultry, etc.

These associations have been a source of real pleasure for us . . . and we want to thank all of you for your patronage and your friendship. It is only through your confidence and support that our establishment has grown from a meager beginning in 1937 to one of the largest of its kind in Western North Carolina.

With continued determination, we hope to serve you even better in the future. Stop in and let us help you plan for more income per acre . . . a small part of your farm can yield hundreds of dollars of extra income when planted to produce.
