Quite often we at NELSON'S TELEVISION SERVICE notice that people have their television sets standing near windows where the sun shines on the screen during a part of the day. This is bad because it does not take long for the fluorescent material inside the picture tube to be destroyed causing your picture to be dim and yellowish.

Also, keep your set away from radiators and furnace outlets as heat destroys electronic equipment. Be sure that there is space around your set, especially in the back for ventilation.

Phone GL 6-8861 for your next service call and we can help you position your set for the best viewing and for the longest life.
