Toss Nylon Slips In Washing Machine

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Nylon slips give longer wear if washed by machine rather than by hand.

The recommendation was made by Michigan State University textile researchers who tried washing white nylon tricot and nylon satin slips both ways.

They said machine laundering gave better results because of the more constant amount and temperatures of the water, more effective scouring and more thorough rinsing.

Machine laundering was reported as especially effective in preventing yellowing of nylon slips.

The researchers found that most shrinkage in the slips took place in the first five launderings. They also found that tricot knit nylon slips shrunk slightly more than those of woven satin.
