Haywood County's four community canneries will open this week and continue in operation until September 28, it has been announced.

Mrs. Rufus Siler, county cannery supervisor, said that the canneries will open at 8 a.m. and all food brought in must be ready to process by 12 noon.

With spring comes the round of bridal showers and luncheons. For these occasions, open face tarts are most appropriate. They take a little more time than a pie, but are worth the effort. You can start with your own favorite pastry recipe and use the fillings given below.

  - 2 T. cornstarch
  - 1/8 tsp. salt
  - 2 T. butter
  - 1/2 pint heavy cream, whipped
  - 6 tart shells

- Fruit Basket Tarts
- Select ripe, juicy strawberries, raspberries, sliced peaches or other fruits in season. Wash, drain, pick over and hull the berries; or pare and slice fresh peaches or other fruit. Sweeten to taste, then chill.

defense program by learning to defend themselves, their homes, and their nation. They'll be trained by the men who know military methods best—the skilled, experienced veterans of World War II. They'll train with their hometown friends and neighbors, in their hometown's own military organization. They'll have every chance for promotion to higher grades—even the chance to earn an officer's commission. They'll learn new skills that will help their civilian career, too—have the opportunity to attend many technical and service schools. They'll be paid while they train, and paid well at prevailing U. S. Army and Air Force rates. In every respect, the Guardsman will make himself a more valuable member of his community and his country.

"For businessmen and labor groups, the course is also clear. They can encourage the men under their responsibility to join the National Guard. They can bolster that encouragement tangibly by making allowances for military training leave—especially for the summer encampment that is so important to the Guard training calendar. They can find ways to clear that time for their employees who are Guardsmen, and preferably clear that time with full payment. No man should be penalized with loss of income for serving his country. It is not too much to ask of any businessman, to share in a duty that is eventually protecting his business rights, and all our rights.

"For every individual, there is a job. All of us can take an active interest in the National Guard units of our community; can learn what the mission of the Guard means to ourselves and our homes. We can all help America to keep its Guard up. No responsibility in the world is greater or more important today."
