Lake Conference Expected To Draw Over 400 Ministers

More than 400 Methodist pastors and district superintendents are expected to attend an annual Southwide Ministers' Conference today through Monday at the denomination's summer assembly grounds, Lake Junaluska.

Coming from nine states, the group will observe a daily schedule of workshops and discussion clinics, and meet at night with delegates to a Family Life Conference for joint public sessions.

Southeastern officers of the district superintendents' section are the Rev. O. L. Hathaway, Fayetteville, president; the Rev. J. O.

Smith, Spartanburg, S. C., vice president; and the Rev. W. Leroy Baker, Henderson, Ky., secretary-treasurer.

Officers of the pastors' section are the Rev. Lester Rumble, Augusta, Ga., president; the Rev. J. E. Merchant, Clinton, S. C., vice president; and the Rev. W. H. Poore, Richmond, Ky., secretary.

Principal speakers for both conferences will be Bishop Roy H. Short, Nashville, Tenn., and Dr. Mack B. Stokes of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.

Champion Foresters Meets This Weekend

More than 100 members of Champion's Wood Department, wood procurement men, state and national foresters will be guests of The Champion Paper and Fibre Company at Lake Logan this weekend.

J. Herschel Keener, Woods manager, will have charge of arrangements and will serve as host to the annual event.

Blood And Tourists

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Richland and Kershaw counties in South Carolina were out for blood. Clearwater, Fla. wanted more tourists. So they got together.

The South Carolina counties staged a campaign for blood donations to the Red Cross. They pick one of the donors to have a week's vacation in Clearwater. The people of Clearwater provide a full program of entertainment with all expenses paid.

The Clearwater folks figure that in the course of the South Carolina blood campaign, a lot of people heard about the attractions of resort facilities in Florida. They

New Career

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Alice C. Harness, a grandmother and recent college graduate is about to start a new career in social work. She's 53 and prides herself on being the first member of her family to earn a degree. Mrs. Harness has two daughters, a son and seven grandchildren. Another son was killed in World War II.

are happy about the whole thing, but so far, the offer is limited to the two South Carolina counties. The vacationist provides his own transportation to and from Florida.

WHY SPLIT HAIRS?

Due West, S. C. (AP)—Erskine college officials are wondering what to do with a new gift: 50 locks of hair.

The collection, clipped from the heads of the college's first graduating class of women in 1859, was presented by Dr. D. L. Kay of Anderson. He got it from a descendant of one of the class members.
