Adams to See Ike

PRESIDENTIAL assistant Sherman Adams, appearing ruffled from the heat, arrives in Gettysburg, Pa., after a flight from Washington for a conference with President Eisenhower. Other White House staff members accompanied Adams for the meeting.

Graduation Brings Promotion

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — It took Edward Sly 18 years to graduate from San Diego state college but when he did he was second highest in his engineering class of 697.

Sly, nearly 40, started his college studies part time in 1936 while working at Ryan Aeronautical Co. His studies were interrupted by stepped-up production at the plant during and after World War II. He resumed them eight years ago, plugging along for six credits a semester to complete the course. As a graduation present, Ryan promoted him to supervisor of the Firebee Drone (pilotless target plane) test group.

NO MORE TV ANTENNAS
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two college professors are working on a radio antenna suitable for man's first rocket to the moon.

Charles P. Wells, Michigan State University mathematician, and physicist Alfred Leitner say rockets or satellites couldn't use clumsy outside antennae like the television ones that perch on roofs. That kind would slow down travel and break off.

So they're experimenting with the idea of treating a rocket itself as an antenna by applying electrical charges to it. Practical applications of their ideas will be left to the U. S. Army ordnance research office which is supporting the project.
