New Electric Math Board Knows All The Answers

ARITHMETIC MADE EASY—Robert Kinch, math teacher, looks on as students do multiplication on electric board.

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Robert Kinch, mathematics teacher at Roosevelt Junior High School, has devised an electric board to aid his pupils to learn the multiplication tables. The board also works on geography, vocabulary and English questions.

The principle of the board allows one pupil to pick out the problem by touching a metal screw with the end of a pointer, while the second child selects the answer and touches the metal for that answer. If the solution is correct, a buzzer sounds. If the second pupil selects the wrong answer, the buzzer is silent.

The board covers all multiplication tables for numbers 1 through 9. Each problem has a metal screw sticking through the board, and on the back is attached a piece of lamp cord wire. That wire extends across the metal screw placed at the correct answer to the problem.

The end of each pointer held by the children is metallic, to which is attached a wire running between each stick and to the buzzer, and on a dry cell battery. When the two pointers touch the proper screws, the buzzer sounds.

Kinch says use of the board has aroused greater interest of the children in their lessons.

Amateur Beekeeper
 CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—An estimated 8,000 to 10,000 bees swarmed atop a downtown traffic light and sent pedestrians scurrying.

Charles McGhee, a lens grinder for an optical company, cleared up the jam when he got a box and ladder from a nearby store and after about half an hour coaxed the queen and her followers into the makeshift hive.

McGhee, an amateur beekeeper, later transferred the swarm to a hive at his home.

Too Far
 CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Johnny Stuart prides himself on friendly service at his filling station but he thought the six South Carolinians went too far.

Four men and two women pulled into his station about 1 a.m. to get a new fan belt. When Stuart went to wait on another car, the southerners left without paying for the belt—and helped themselves to a box of tools, two tires and a wheel, all valued at $168.

Movie At Strand Sunday Features Story Of D-Day

Most good war stories are in reality love stories played against the background or within the forces of a war, and they become war stories only to the extent that the disrupting strains of an armed conflict impinge upon the lives of the lovers. So it is with "D-Day, the Sixth of June," which opens Sunday at the Strand Theatre.

This is the modern story of love and duty that parallels the Hemingway's earlier "A Farewell to Arms." Starring Robert Taylor, Richard Todd, Dana Wynter and Edmond O'Brien, "D-Day, the Sixth of June" focuses primarily on the bitter-sweet love story between an American army captain and a beautiful English girl who meet on the eve of the invasion.

There is also the rejected hero-lover and the bombastic army superior whose frailties conquer him in the hours before D-Day, as well as the crusty old Brigadier who can't go on solely as an eyewitness to war.

A Light Problem
 READING, Pa. (AP)—Tom Dendore wanted a traffic light on Schuylkill Avenue near his home. So he took his problem to City Council.

"It's very busy and I'd like a traffic light there," he informed the councilmen. "Sometimes you can hardly get across the street."

Tom is 10 years old. He goes to school near the busy intersection.

Democrats Working On A National Farm Program

By BILL WHITLEY

POLICY. A group of the Nation's best farm experts met in Washington during the weekend to hammer out an overall agricultural program for the Democratic Party's fall election campaign.

Claude Wickard of Indiana, former Secretary of Agriculture, is head of the committee, which includes North Carolina's Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. Ballentine.

The two-day session was largely devoted to devising ways and means of arousing interest among farmers in pressing farm problems.

COMPLACENT. Members of the committee, representing all sections of the Nation, agreed that many farmers are complacent about the low farm income situation. This situation exists, they feel, because many farmers believe the revised farm program of the Eisenhower Administration, especially the soil bank program, will bring farm income back up to its normal level.

The committee also agrees that once the crops are in this fall,

TV Takes A Ride

SPRINGFIELD, Ky. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Grundy were just killing time until their favorite television program would be on.

They took the kinds out for a short drive. When they returned the hunt for the television set began.

A thief walked off with the set during the family's drive.

by the problems that confront us, but rather give Thee thanks that Thou hast matched us with this hour. May we resolve, God helping us, to be part of the answer, and not part of the problem."
