

LABOR DAY

1956

American Labor is the sinew and backbone of American Industry. American Labor is the freest Labor in the world. American Labor has achieved miracles of production in war time which show the way toward miracles of production in time of Peace. The nation looks with pride on the past achievement of American Labor. It looks with confidence to achievements yet to come.

... One of the millions of labor's ranks — who DO the things which make it possible for so many Americans to enjoy an abundant life. And just as this Labor Day is dedicated to him, so is he dedicated to the constant production of the cars and appliances, furnishings and practical "gadgets" which make for everyone's better living ... for him a better life.
