with the West in 1549 when Francis Xavier, a Spanish missionary, landed and spent three years in the country.

In 1853 when Commodore Perry landed in Japan with his U. S. fleet the Oriental country became opened permanently to trade and other relations with the Western nations, he added.

Rev. Mr. Shimmi said that Japan has adopted, to a large extent, many things from the West's way of life, such as food, clothing, household furnishings and appliances, and transportation.

Today, he pointed out, about 80 per cent of all Japanese wear Western clothing.

Commenting on religion, the speaker said that Japan's two major religions are Buddhism and Shintoism (ancestor worship).

Speaking of his personal life, Rev. Mr. Shimmi related how he was drafted into the Japanese army in World War II while a seminary student, spending two years in service. During all this time, he said, his every word and action were under constant scrutiny because he was believed pro-Western.

Since the war, the speaker remarked, "Japan has become completely free, and is on its way to recovery."

"However," he added, "the future is not in our hands; it is in yours. It will be up to the United States to make this a better world. And the best way to do that would be for all of us to know and understand each other."

"Americans must have a bright and great vision of the future."

Tar Heel Congressional Posts Based On Elections

By BILL WHITLEY

ELECTION. The stakes are unusually high this year for North Carolina and the South in the Congressional elections. If the Republicans gain control of Congress, it will mean that the South will lose a majority of the major committee chairmanships in both the House and Senate.

When committee chairmanships are considered in light of civil rights and other legislation in which the South has a deep interest, this year's election becomes even more important.

SENATE. In the Senate, for example, if the Republicans gain control of Congress, it will mean that Sen. James Eastland of Mississippi will be replaced as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee by Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin. This is the committee that handles all civil rights legislation.

Just as important is the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, which handles most of the social legislation other than civil rights. If the Democrats lose control of Congress, Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama will be replaced as chairman of this committee by Sen. Alexander Smith of New Jersey.

Other Senate committee chairmanships that would be taken away from southerners if the Republicans win Congress are:

Agriculture, now held by Sen. Allen Ellender of Louisiana would go to Sen. George Aiken of Vermont; Armed Services, now held by Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia would go to Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire; Banking and Currency, now held by Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas would go to Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana; Finance, now held by Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia would go to Sen. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania; Government Operations now held by Sen. John McClellan of Arkansas would go to Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin; and Post Office and Civil Service, now held by Sen. Olin Johnston of South Carolina would go to Sen. Frank Carlson of Kansas.

HOUSE. In the House, North Carolina would feel more of an immediate effect if the Democrats lose control of Congress.

Rep. Harold Cooley would be replaced as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Rep. Graham Barden would lose the chairmanship of the House Labor and Education Committee, and Rep. Herbert Bonner would be replaced as chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Rep. Carl Durham would also
