

Albert Mull Wins Lake Golf Tournament With 220

Canton Tops Bethel In Opener, 25-0

A stubborn Bethel defense held the favored Canton Black Bears in check for most of the first half Friday night, but Milner put the Bruins ahead with a 77-yard punt return in the last minute of the first half, and Billy Stamey broke the game wide open in the third run with two long runs. Wiley Carpenter added another TD in the fourth quarter and Canton won, 25-0.

Until Milner's long run late in the second quarter, fumbles kept both teams from mounting a scoring drive.

Way in the first period, Stamey's run set the Black Bear offense into action, but a Canton back fumbled two plays later and Bethel recovered.

Moments later, Billy Burress got loose for a 27-yard sprint and Bethel picked up one more first down before being forced to punt at the end of the quarter.

After Bethel's punt rolled into the end zone, Canton took the ball on their own 20, lost four yards on one play, and fumbled on the next — with Bethel recovering on the Canton 12.

The Blue Demons, however, failed to take advantage of their golden opportunity as Burress fumbled on the first play from scrimmage and the Bruins got the ball back again.

The game seesawed back and forth for the remainder of the second quarter until Milner took a Bethel punt on his own 27 and, aided by some fine downfield blocking, sidestepped his way to Canton's first touchdown.

As the second half opened, Bethel took the kick but could get no where and was forced to punt. On Canton's third play, Stamey found a hole over left tackle and sailed 84 yards for the touchdown, convoyed by several blockers. The kick for the extra point was good.

The same circumstances were repeated again shortly after Bethel was unable to get moving and punted to the Black Bears.

Five plays later, Stamey found another gap in Bethel's defenses

All Haywood Grid Teams Will See Action Friday

MEDALIST at the International Open Golf Tournament at the Lake Junaluska Golf Course last week was Albert Mull of Waynesville (left), who shot a 220 in the 56-hole event. Here Mull was presented a trophy by Ted Martin of the Martin Electric Co., Waynesville, which donated the tournament trophies.

Three games are scheduled on Haywood County gridirons this Friday, with all four county teams slated to see action on home soil. At 3 p.m., undefeated Clyde (2-0) will play host to Bakersville in a Skyline-A Conference tilt. Friday night, Bethel will invade Waynesville as the Mountaineers open their '56 football campaign, and Canton will be at home to the Enka Jets.

Although the Bethel-Waynesville game will be played here, the contest will be handled as a Bethel home game under sponsorship of the Waynesville Merchants Association.

According to A. D. Harrison, president of the association, merchants will have advance tickets on sale at the Chamber of Commerce and American Fruit Stand, and will handle the gate. After the game, a check for the proceeds will be turned over to Bethel.

At Waynesville High this morning the Mountaineers' new coach, Bruce Jaynes, said his squad has been showing "good spirit," but declined any predictions as to their strength until he has seen them in action in at least two games.

Jaynes did venture that the backfield "appears pretty well balanced" and that the squad may have "considerable speed."

The Mountaineer mentor said he has seen both Hendersonville and Canton in action and that both are "loaded"—remarking: "The Blue Ridge Conference is a tough league today."

In the Women's Division, Mrs. A. Doerick of Chattanooga shot the low net of 147, and Mrs. Robert Looney of Kingsport was runner-up with 148. Tying for third place were Mrs. F. McGloughon and Mrs. C. Nelmes with 150.

Winners of the tournament were presented silver plates by the association.

The Senior Golf Association, which has more than 500 members and celebrated its 25th anniversary last year, will have another tournament at Myrtle Beach in two weeks.

Fishing Permits Make Sense Even For 'No-Gallus' Angler

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The following article on North Carolina fishing licenses is reprinted from the Charlotte Observer.)

There are too many poor people in North Carolina at any time. There are never so many of them as when the General Assembly tackles the question of whether a bait fisherman should pay a little license fee.

That is when you learn that the creek and river banks are inhabited and scampers 38 yards to climax a 72-yard march.

Near the end of the third quarter Jimmy Mathis of Canton recovered a Bethel fumble on the Blue Demon 13 and in three tries early in the fourth period, Wiley Carpenter lugged the ball over the goal line.

Late in the fourth quarter, Bethel drove to the Canton 23, chiefly on one long pass, but other passes missed their mark and the Black Bears took over on their own 25.

Canton then picked up one first down and then tried two passes—both incomplete—as the game ended.

The next game for Canton will be at home Friday night against the Enka Jets. For the Blue Demons, the schedule calls for them to trek to WTTM stadium to help the late-starting Waynesville Mountaineers open their season.

Although played here, the contest will be counted as Bethel's home game.

ed, in spring and summer, by the aged, the infirm and the poverty-stricken. All struggling with a cane pole and fishing worm to provide the evening meal.

That is when you learn of Eastern Carolina's exhibit in poverty, the "no-gallus" man. He is one step worse off than the "one-gallus man" of Gene Talmadge's Georgia. And it is asked in the Legislature, in his name, how a man who cannot support his pants can afford to go buying licenses to fish in the creek.

That question has sealed the doom of a series of so-called "fishing worm bills." Now, from Raleigh, the Wildlife Resources Commission declares its intention to give the idea still another try.

It is to be hoped, in all deference to poverty, that the commission makes the grade next year. For the story of the galluses, or the lack of them, has been exaggerated, and the facts that make good sense of fishing licenses for fishing worms have not been understood.

As things stand now, a bait fisherman can spend the entire year on the creeks and rivers of his home county without paying a cent for the privilege. Yet his neighbor, whose angling tastes may turn toward a plug or fly, must pay at least $1.10 a year to cast the same waters.

It is the task of the Wildlife Commission to police those waters, to replenish the fish, to remove the scavengers and to educate the public in conservation. Yet its labors, which benefit all fishermen, are supported by only a portion of them.

The commission is eligible to receive federal aid under the Dingle-Johnson Act. Those funds come from taxes on fishing equipment, which is sold in large quantity in North Carolina. Yet the funds are distributed among the states according to fishing license sales, and North Carolina is proportionately low in those sales because of the exemptions under the law.

The promise of the "fishing worm bill" is better fishing for everyone in North Carolina, now and in the future. Its price, $1.10, is low even by the standards drawn in General Assembly oratory.

As low, in fact, as the price of a set of galluses.

Huge Brown Trout Defy Able Anglers

By JIM THOMAS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If you want to take a shot at catching the world record brown trout, I can tell you where he lives.

I found his address on a trip to Eastern Shasta County in northern California, an area that is criss-crossed with crystal clear streams which are inhabited by grown-up rainbow and brown trout.

It's a country where the natives refer to an 18-inch rainbow, going maybe three pounds, as "a nice little fish."

I caught those "nice little fish." And then I went visiting with Jack Bell, superintendent of the Department of Fish and Game Crystal Lake Hatchery, and that's where I learned about the monster browns.

It's easy to reach these monster browns — or the water in which they live. The place is called Baum Lake.

And it's easy to see the monsters, too.

Nearly all of the fishermen who have stayed in the area have done it. No one knows just how big they are but the estimates run up to about 4 feet long and eight to 10 inches across the back.

Fellows who've stood on the banks and watched them swim past throwing a six inch wake will give you odds that at least one will break the world record, if he's ever landed. And the world record is 39 1/2 pounds, set by W. Muir who took the monster fish from Lake Awe, Scotland, in 1866.

For a quarter of a century Baum Lake was closed to fishing. But two years ago the Department of Fish and Game made arrangements to open it up.

Since then scores of persons have seen the lunkers, and four men have hooked them.

Two of the anglers who managed to entice the big boys were fishing from the banks. They were in about the same fix as the early day cowboy who roped the locomotive. The darned things just wouldn't stay snubbed, and when they came to the end of all the fishermen's lines they just went right on.

The other two fished from boats. One was unfortunate enough to hook his fish near an old sunken fence. He was in business just long enough for the brownie to take a couple of turns and a half hitch around a post. Then all he had to do was unfasten the snarled up end of his line.

The fourth lucky angler was in a boat and in good water. He cut loose and let the fish fight the rod and the boat too for an hour and 45 minutes. Then the old brownie got tired, or remembered a date. Anyway he rolled over and wrapped up the line and kicked it loose with a swipe of his foot-wide tail.

Of course, fish don't spend 25 or 30 years getting big without getting smart too. At least the California browns don't.

Ben Ray Of Canton Runner-Up

Albert Mull of Waynesville with a 220 was medalist at the International Open Golf Tournament on Lake Junaluska Golf Course, which started Wednesday and closed Saturday evening.

Runner-up in the tournament was Ben Ray of Canton with a 221.

Winner of the first flight was Ted Martin of Waynesville with a 243, while Bill Sutton of Waynesville was runner-up with a 245.

Hugh Constance of Clyde won the second flight with a 261 and Charlie Hargrove placed second with a 266.

Max Feichter of Waynesville was the winner of the third flight with a 285 and Van Green was second with a 294.

Two hole-in-one events held in conjunction with the tournament were won by Charlie Hargrove and Ted Martin, with prizes being donated by Kurt Gans Jewelers and the Lake Junaluska Golf Course. Tournament trophies were presented by the Martin Electric Co. of Waynesville.

On Saturday evening at the close of the tournament, a lawn tea was given at the lake course by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith of Waynesville. Pouring were Mrs. Bill Cobb, Mrs. Joe Stanelli, and Mrs. Frank E. Hendricks.

Wayne Bradburn Named Head Of BR Conference

Wayne Bradburn, Brevard High coach, was elected president of the Blue Ridge Conference at the annual fall meeting of the coaches last night at the Army Store.

Bradburn succeeds Bob Tate of Hendersonville. George Cathey of Enka was elected vice-president and C. C. Poindexter of Bethel was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Bill Swift, Waynesville; Gil Lance, Erwin; and W. L. Barkby of Canton were named to the executive committee.

During the session, the Hendersonville Bearcats were officially declared winners of the conference baseball title last spring.

downed. In the fourth quarter, Rogers sparked another march and the Cardinals drove 52 yards, climaxed by the former's plunge from the two.

Commenting on the Mars Hill game, Clyde coach H. B. Griffin said his line played better than expected—particularly on defense. He singled out McCracken for praise for his "excellent" ball handling and faking.

He called Rogers "the best ball player on the field—who got the necessary yardage when we needed it"—and added that Caldwell and Martin also ran well.

The one gloomy note in the victory over Mars Hill was the fact that Rogers suffered a deep laceration on his forehead which required six stitches to close. Coach Griffin said he will probably keep his varsity fullback out of this Friday's game against Bakersville. In Rogers' place will be George Medford, 160-pound junior.

Patricia Gabriel Tebbetts, youngest of three girls in the Birdie Tebbetts family, was named after Gabe Paul, vice-president of the Cincinnati Redlegs. Birdie manages Cincinnati.
