

The spirit of Izaak Walton prevades this town now that Marie Fish and James Bass have just gotten married and are coming here on their honeymoon as guests of a fisherman's magazine. The young couple hail from Angier, North Carolina and took out their marriage license in nearby Lillington. Not only are Fish and Bass their own names, but Marie's boss is named R. R. Pool and James's is A. J. Skaake. It seems that the couple had planned a quiet cartrip of a honeymoon, when the magazine learned of their names and plans. Now they are coming as guests and will be given a round of gaiety here - free of charge. Well, Mr. and Mrs. Bass, welcome to the big swim!

No show is worth all that. But crowds are standing in line here to buy tickets for the hit, "My Fair Lady," and when the long line finally moves a buyer up to the window, he can only get seats for next March. What's more, the line begins to form about 4 a.m., and in the murky half-light of early morning looks from a distance like the mythical ghost-herd in the sky. Some grow tired of the standing - so they sell their places in the line to some other night-hawk hovering about - and when he gets up to the window, usually finds that he can buy standing-room only for the show.

When I first came to New York, I stayed in the Hotel Lincoln on 8th Avenue not far, off Times Square. It was a friendly place, which surprised me for I had heard this town was cold to strangers. Later the 1,300-room hostelry was allowed to run down until there were only a few people staying in it. About a year ago, it was bought by a prominent real estate man here, who had a hard time getting the few remaining tenants to leave. Then he refurbished the hotel and renamed it, the Manhattan, that good old Indian monicker which, it is a wonder, some one had not already stuck on some other hotel here.

Sometimes this city is referred to as "Broadway," and there is a reason. For this street is the longest in the world, being 16 miles in length while Manhattan Island is only 12 1/2 miles long itself. Broadway runs from the southern tip of the island through financial, civic, needle-trades, amusement, automobile, residential and educational sections to a little farm at

PAUL GEORGE

BILLY GEORGE

New honors have come to Cadet Captain Paul George and Cadet Master Sergeant Billy George at Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga. Both boys have been named members of the Cadet Council in elections recently held by the Corps of Cadets.

Both boys are already members of the Horton Society and in addition, Captain Paul George, a member of the senior class, is president of the Horton Society and a member of the Honor Court, one of Riverside's three major leadership groups. Both are also members of the Riverside varsity football team.

They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. George of Waynesville.

the northern extremity. I visited this farm and was delighted at all the rural aspects of animal and crops it has, yet touches the main street of the world's greatest city.

So many great men have owned newspapers that even a list of them would require a whole column. But it is interesting to note that Thomas A. Edison, among his other accomplishments, printed and published his own newspaper when quite young. He bought a used hand press and some type and in his spare time turned out his "Weekly Herald." He gathered news, set the type and printed the paper—besides handling advertising. "This is said to have been the only newspaper ever published on a train."

Gotham Gatherings: the restaurant said to have the biggest front lawn of any is the local Tavern-on-the-Green, with all of Central Park for its yard... unusual ad: "Unemployed writer of fairy tales seeks other work. Unable compete with reality. References on request. Write Hans Christian Anderson % B&O Magazine" ... passed Henry Fonda on the street and he needed a hair cut badly... understand the Meramec Caverns of Stanton, Mo. are conducting an underground pool on who is expected to be President... an exhibit at a local home-furnishings show included a Lowell Thomas room, duplicating his home in Pawling, N. Y. Only catch is that Lowell is rarely at home.

Special Automotive Taxes In State Total $138 Yearly

The average North Carolina highway user now pays over $138 a year in special automotive taxes that are in addition to his regular share of general taxation, according to "Goals," a new pocket handbook just issued by the North Carolina Petroleum Industries Committee. This per-vehicle tax cost is broken down into an average $86.73 a year paid in state and federal taxes on gasoline; $20.86 in state motor license and carrier fees; $6.33 in sales taxes on automotive products, and $24.26 in federal automotive taxes.

Featured in the booklet is a six-point program of objectives urged in behalf of highway users by this statewide committee of oil men, headed by J. V. Delander, chairman.

"As an organization," Delander said, "we foster and support public policies which are fair to our customers, our industry and the state at large."

The six goals he listed for the present year are: Keep Gas Tax Reasonable, Protect Highway Funds, Insure Fair Competition, Reduce Inspection Fees, Repeal Gasoline Pump Tax, and Promote Highway Safety.

One section of the booklet traces the history of gasoline taxation in

Dellwood Church Plans Homecoming For 21st

Homecoming will be observed at the Dellwood Methodist Church Sunday, October 21, at the 11 o'clock service. The pastor, the Rev. Grady Barringer, will preach and will conduct a memorial service.

A picnic lunch will be served on the church grounds immediately following the service.

All members, past members, and friends of the congregation are invited to attend.

North Carolina from the original 1-cent state tax, first levied in 1921, to the present combined state and federal tax rate of 10 1/4 cents a gallon, and concludes:

"In North Carolina the average retail price of regular gasoline, excluding taxes, is now about 19.9 cents a gallon—11.4 cents less than the 31.3-cent average price here in 1920. But while the price of the product itself—unlike other commodities—is actually lower than it was 36 years ago, present taxes on gasoline now add more than 50 per cent to the cost."

Gerald West Dies At 75 In Georgia

Herbert Gerald West of Marietta, Georgia, a former resident of Waynesville, died Sunday morning in a Marietta hospital after a long illness. He was 75.

A son of the late Herbert Gerald and Nancy Webb West, he was born in Kinston and came to Waynesville with his parents during his early boyhood. He moved to Marietta in 1918.

West was a conductor on the L and N Railroad for 47 years and retired in 1948. He was a member of the Waynesville First Methodist Church and was a Mason. His wife is the former Miss Mattie Love of Waynesville.

Graveside rites were conducted at Green Hill Cemetery here this afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Earl H. Brennan, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

Pallbearers were Ben Sloan, Hugh Massie, Paul Martin, Weaver Kirkpatrick, Theo McCracken, and J. H. Howell.

Surviving, in addition to the wife, are two daughters, Mrs. Julian Wilson of Falls Church, Va. and Mrs. William H. Dean of Marietta; seven grandchildren; and a brother, John W. West of Waynesville.

Arrangements here were under the direction of Garrett Funeral Home.

DEATHS

Funeral services were held Saturday morning in the chapel of Crawford Funeral Home at Canton for Robert E. Davis, 68, who died Thursday in an Asheville hospital following a long illness. The Rev. Lawrence C. Newman officiated and burial was in Bon-A-Venture Cemetery.

Pallbearers were J. C. Harrison, Barton Ray, Oliver Hamlet, Max Tatham, Bill Abbott, and Frank Cobe. Honorary pallbearers were members of the Champion Old-Timers Club.

Davis, a native of Georgia, came to Canton in 1927 from Gordon, Georgia. He was a retired Champion Paper and Fibre Co. employee and was a member of the Champion Old-Timers Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Graves Davis; two daughters, Mrs. Maurice Kelly, Jr. of Canton and Mrs. George Beard of Fort McPherson, Ga.; three granddaughters; a sister, Mrs. Clara Burke of Baltimore, Md.; two nephews, and a niece.

Students Will Receive Report Cards This Week

Report cards, showing the scholastic standing of students for the first six weeks' grading period, will be distributed in the Waynesville schools this week. The first grading period ended last Wednesday.
