J. W. Stevens Big Factor In UNC Freshmen Victory

By CLIFTON METCALF (Special to The Mountaineer)

CHAPEL HILL—J. W. Stevens of Hazelwood was a big factor in the sound 21-0 licking the University of North Carolina freshman football team handed the frosh of the University of Maryland here Friday.

The big Haywood fullback displayed the same driving power for which he was known in Blue Ridge Conference circles when he played for Waynesville High School's Mountaineers.

All he needed when carrying the ball was 4 or 5 steps to gain momentum before hitting the Maryland line and the Tar Babies were virtually assured of gaining from 3 to 6 yards.

Carolina quarterbacks frequently used Stevens on the first and 10th yard play because of his ability to gain consistently. It was not uncommon to see him carry 2 or 3 Maryland tacklers for several yards before they brought him down.

Stevens, starting fullback, was used as a linebacker on defense. Once in the second half a Maryland quarterback took the ball from center and upon jumping to throw a short pass to his end cutting behind the Carolina line was so surprised to find Stevens up in the air with him and only stens away that he could not retard his throw. The ball hit the big linebacker squarely in the chest and fell incomplete.

All three scores came in the second half as the Maryland freshmen stepped several drives deep into their territory in the first half. First string quarterback Jack Cummings passed for two scores while his sub, Nelson Lowe, sneaked for the third.

Stevens kept the drive alive for the second score, which came in the 4th quarter. After Cornell Johnson had scored on a pass from Cummings, Stevens added the point after touchdown—a newly discovered ability of the Haywood youngster.

After the Tar Babies lost to the Wake Forest Deaclets in their opening game two weeks ago doubt began to rise among Carolina fans as to whether Jim Tatum had been successful in his first attempt to recruit further football stars for UNC.

But when Tatum's recruits had finished pushing the traditionally

Sad Case

PETOSKEY, Mich. (AP)—The case of the Petoskey Grocery Co. against the Adams Grocery Co. finally has disappeared from the Emmet County Circuit Court docket. It had appeared regularly four times a year for 19 years.

All principals are dead. The firms have been dissolved. The original judge also died. Judge Edward H. Fenlon finally threw it out but observed sadly that "the docket won't seem the same now."

talent laden Maryland freshmen all over the Kenan Stadium turf, it was quite clear that Big Jim had recruited some of the finest prospective young football players in the country in his quest to bring football greatness to his old alma mater.

The Maryland first stringers appeared to be about on a par with Tatum's 3rd team. After the first half the first two Tar Baby teams could gain or halt the visitors almost at will. Head freshman coach Fred Tullai used four teams during the course of the game.

One spectator was heard to remark after the contest: "That was the best game I've seen here in five years." It is doubtful that he changed his mind after seeing the varsity drop a 26-12 game to Georgia Saturday.

Haywood County can be proud that one of her sons is on the starting freshman team here at UNC because Jim Stevens has the potential to put Waynesville on the collegiate football map.

Washington Women Seek Fashion Show In Moscow

By ANNETTE DAVIS (For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — The ladies in Moscow will have their first chance to see American fashions first hand if two Washington women have their way.

The two fashion entrepreneurs are Estelle Druskin, an energetic young grandmother, and Patricia Mayfield Mauldin, a fashion commentator and former model.

Mrs. Druskin says she thought it was time the Russians concentrated on fashions instead of fissions, so she wrote a letter to the State Department suggesting a fashion show. Then when she and her friend heard a congressional subcommittee was studying United States participation in a Moscow agricultural and industrial trade fair next summer, they decided to take their case to Capitol Hill.

What better way, they reasoned, could the women of Russia be attracted to the fair than to show what the average American family wears and can afford?

After working for days, the girls came up with an official looking eight-page document outlining their project. The subcommittee promptly approved their report and recommended it to the full House Committee on Agriculture.

How do they hope to impress the Russians with American fashion ingenuity?

Midgets Whip Asheville; Hendersonville Is Next

STORK PITCHES TO SLAUGHTER

ENOS "COUNTRY" SLAUGHTER checks by phone with his wife, who is expecting a baby at any time now. Slaughter, a potent factor for the New York Yankees in the World Series, has been given little time to pace the corridor. Actually, he has been pacing the Yanks in the drive to win the world championship from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

One of the biggest games of the season for the Mountaineer Midget football team will be played Monday, night at Waynesville stadium when UNC's former All-American, Charlie "Choo-Choo" Justice brings his Hendersonville Bearcubs to town.

The kickoff will be at 7 p.m. Midget football was organized by Justice at Hendersonville for the first time this year, but he already has several teams playing games similar to the Little League baseball league here.

After two losses to the Canton Gra-Y Bears last week, the Mountaineer Midgets won their first game here Monday night by turning back the Asheville YMCA, 18-7. Rowe Leatherwood scored the first touchdown for Waynesville on a keep play that went around end for 20 yards.

In the third quarter, the Mountaineer Midgets got a drive going, which ended with Ray Edwards plunging over from the three.

Waynesville countered again in the fourth quarter when Roger Smith sliced through tackle for 40 yards and a touchdown.

Asheville scored its only touchdown of the game by running back the next kickoff for 60 yards.

Admission prices for the Hendersonville game here Monday night will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Proceeds will go to buy uniforms for the midget squad.

Expert Helps Policemen With Handling Of Juveniles

By ANNETTE DAVIS (For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON — Local law enforcement agencies throughout the country are receiving visits, at their own request, from the Children's Bureau's only policeman.

He's Frederic F. Schneidewind, a tall, soft-spoken man with a master's degree in criminology who refers to himself as "just a cop."

Since his appointment in April, 1955, he has given 51 consultations in 22 states on how to handle children who get into trouble with the law and how to organize juvenile police forces.

Mr. Schneidewind is interested primarily in what can be done by the man on the beat.

"Only one out of every four or five children picked up is referred to higher authority," Mr. Schneidewind said. "The others are handled at the police level. It's here that we need a firm but understanding hand."

"After all," he mused, "a youngster is like a young bird learning to fly. He can't always go straight; he needs guidance."

One of the things Mr. Schneidewind hopes to do through the training courses for policemen is to acquaint them with social and welfare agencies in their own community which might help the child offender before he gets into serious difficulty.

Another problem, says Mr. Schneidewind, is to standardize procedures for handling children.

"If you ask the basis for a child being detained in different part of the country, you get about ten different answers. For the same offense, a child in one place may be taken into custody, while another child in another area will be sent home." "But," he added, "with one and one-third million children coming into contact with the police a year, there's a big movement among law enforcement agencies to standardize their handling of child offenders and to build up units of specially trained juvenile police officers."

Sinclair Power-X with New X-Chemical Does What No Other Gasoline Ever Did Before

X-CHEMICAL ELIMINATES POWER-ROBBING ENGINE DEPOSITS.

OUTSTANDING JOURNALISTS of leading publications recently-witnessed proof, previously certified by American Automobile Association tests, that Sinclair's new power discovery, new Power-X Gasoline with X-Chemical, does what no other gasoline ever did before.

- It eliminates power-robbing engine deposits.
- It increases power, cuts operating costs as you drive.
- X-Chemical is 90% more effective than any other gasoline additive in preventing spark plug fouling.

• It's 70% more effective in preventing power loss from pre-ignition.

Other gasoline additives, intended to combat spark plug fouling and pre-ignition, actually build up harmful deposits of their own.

But Sinclair's new X-Chemical has none of these damaging after-effects. Instead, it changes hard, crusty deposits into harmless, powdery material, thereby increasing power in older cars — retaining peak power in new cars.

After just three tankfuls of new Super-Premium Sinclair Power-X, you can feel the improvement in performance — provided you do not mix it with other gasoline. See your Sinclair Dealer and power up with new Power-X. All cars need it — only Sinclair has it!
