

Boosters Club Carrying On Number Of Civic Projects

The Hazelwood Boosters Club is perhaps the oldest non-affiliated civic group in the state. Their history dates back to 1927, and during that time has led the way for many of the community projects in Hazelwood. In recent years the Lions Club, and Boosters—wives of the Boosters—have taken over some of the community responsibilities.

Nevertheless, the Boosters, are still carrying on their share of the work in Hazelwood, and through them, the Finer Carolina program community building has been generated to the present high level.

Taking a pointer from the Finer Carolina program—or visa versa—the club's motto is: "Helping Make Hazelwood the Finest Town In The Carolinas."

The motto is not just nice sounding words for a sign on the clubroom wall, but the members live and work at the program for 12 months in the year.

In the middle thirties the members became concerned about the lack of a community band, and started a movement which resulted in the organization of the present state-wide rated WTHS band. The club also sponsored the Fourth of July program rides each year, with a major part of the proceeds going to the band.

When Little League baseball teams became a means of providing recreation in the summer for hundreds of boys, the Club sponsored the project, paying the director, and later helped build the park for the teams to play. Later the club added seats for spectators, a shower, and rest room for players.

The club has been sponsor of the Boy Scouts and Brownie troop, and given generously to other such causes in the past.

Sensing the need for the community house, the Club by agreement let some other organizations take over some sponsorship of Scouts, as the Boosters purchased a lot at the corner of Main and Virginia Avenue for the erection of a Club House, or community center.

The first steps towards the Community Center was stemmed by the keen interest generated by the Club's motto, and being a sponsor of the Finer Carolina movement, the project has started.

Just when it will be finished has not been determined, and little does that matter, because the Club is determined to see that the project is finished in "grand style" as early as possible, and practical, for the good of the community.

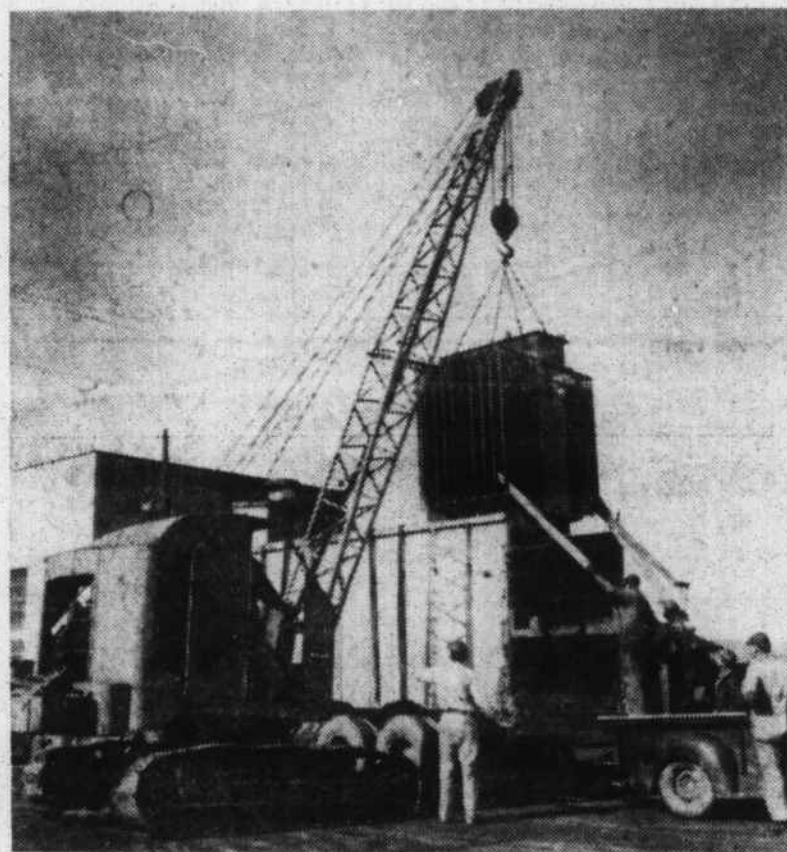

The Boosters Club is a Club that lives up to its name and motto.

The projected Hazelwood Baptist Church sanctuary and educational building will cost about $150,000.

Hazelwood Methodists Are Working With Youth

A growing Methodist Youth Fellowship is the pride of the Hazelwood Methodist Church and its minister, the Rev. L. E. Wiggins. The group was organized only this year, Mr. Wiggins says, and already has 16 to 18 young people attending regularly.

Another source of pride to the church is the fact that it has no debts and no obligations. Members are without fanfare laying aside money for a new building, which they feel is sadly needed. Even without an organized campaign, the fund now totals $1300, and they are paying $50 regularly every month into the Building and Loan.

"The church was established as a mission about 15 years ago," Mr. Wiggins explains, "and you might say we inherited this building from the Presbyterians when they built their new one. Now we've outgrown it too."

Church membership is 90, including 11 persons received this year. Sunday School membership is 102, and WSCS, 16.

The pulpit is supplied by Mr. Wiggins, a retired minister who lives at Lake Junaluska.

Members of the North Hazelwood Baptist Church hold regular services for residents of a nearby rest home.
