International Situation Might Get Much Worse And Ignite, Says Senator Ervin

By SENATOR SAM ERVIN

WASHINGTON — Fast-moving events of recent days have demonstrated the complexity of international affairs.

HATRED

Hatred and suspicion dominate so many parts of the world that anything can set off the powder keg that may well ignite into an all-out conflagration.

These events have served to focus attention to the fact that it is folly to attempt to predict the future in international matters.

FREEDOM

Communism in any form is obviously distasteful to freedom-loving humans. This can be demonstrated by the action of the Hungarian rebels who have given their lives and blood to resist communist tyranny. Unless I am badly mistaken, this event will serve to inspire yet unborn generations to despise the heel of the oppressor. It should serve to remind the nations who have been increasingly prone to pal around with Communism that the game is rough and the results deadly.

TEXTILE PROBLEM

During the past several months I have said my say about the way the Administration has been handling textile imports. I want to state again that I am not at all pleased with the action, or lack of action, to see that the jobs of textile workers are protected within reason by sensible trade agreements. Unless a workable plan is actually carried out, I feel that Congress will again have to devote its attention to this threat and force some effective action.

I have felt it necessary to take this matter to the people of North Carolina during recent weeks in several talks. The reason for my strong feeling about this is that I am firmly convinced that Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade ideas have been so generously perverted by the Administration that he would not recognize them.

VACATION

Since going to the Senate on June 11, 1954, I have taken three days of vacation. A little later on this month, the world situation permitting, I hope to hunt a suitable place away from a telephone and relax for a few days. It will be the first vacation, and I am certainly looking forward to it.

Raked It In

MARSHFIELD, WIS. (AP) — A youngster sent outside to rake leaves returned a short time later and handed her older sister a stack of currency she had picked up in the yard. The find was reported to police.

A bit later, the housewife called the police and said it was her own money. In her absence, she said, the older daughter had washed some draperies and had hung them on the line to dry. The money, about $120, sewed into the hem of the drapes, dislodged and was blown about in the breeze. The younger daughter picked up most of it.

Sorry No Can Do

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Officials at an aircraft plane here decided they couldn't do much for a prospective customer.

They said they received a letter professing interest in a helicopter for transportation "in or out of the South American interior."

The prospect was an inmate of a federal penitentiary.

Town Of Canton Offers Land For Animal Shelter

The board of aldermen of the Town of Canton has offered land for the construction of an animal shelter for Haywood County. Sufficient land at the Canton town dump, near the town incinerator, has been offered to the county.

The site has been inspected by a group from the Humane Association, who reported it would make an ideal spot for an animal shelter, easily reached from the towns of Clyde, Hazelwood and Waynesville, with water available, good access roads and well located near the center of the county.

The land will be made available to the Board of County Commissioners, who have confirmed that a shelter would be built as soon as a centrally located site could be found.

It is the wish of the Board of County Commissioners that the three towns of Clyde, Hazelwood and Waynesville pass upon the suitability of the location and there remains only the formality of obtaining assent from the three townships.
