Daytime Dress

By VERA WINSTON

AN excellent daytime dress, ideal for wear under a threequarter-length fur or cloth coat is this frock of sheer wool in either dark gray or beige. Cut on straight yet soft lines, it features a set-in belt pointed upward in front. The low-placed collar stands away from the neckline. Tucks radiating from the waist all around accord softness to the hip section. One of those little-treasure models that seem so right for so many occasions during the day when one wants to appear nicely costumed
