This Year, Holiday Glamor Starts At The Top

WHITE CHRISTMAS . . . White ermine bonnet veiled in black Chantilly lace, designed for gala wear by Sally Victor.

FLOWER WIG . . . Made entirely of multi-color flower petals, this headliner fits head snugly, covering the hair.

AP Newsfeatures

ONCE UPON A TIME, in the very recent past, you couldn't be sure whether a woman was wearing a hat or not, especially after five. A band, a flower and a scrap of veil could double for a hat at almost any function. This season there is no doubt about it—hats are hats, and the more spectacular the better. Milliner Sally Victor creates a fantasia of holiday headgear ranging from fur bonnets to flower wigs, saying: "The whole idea is to make women look prettier—and this year's hats can do the job." Mamie Eisenhower's favorite milliner, the small, energetic and sparkling Mrs. Victor covers the full range of glamorous toppers, using all varieties of luxury furs, jewels, flowers, velvets, satins and feathers for the greater glorification of her customers. The hats are high, wide and handsome — and there's a silhouette for every type.

Rockwood Church To Give Christmas Pageant Sunday

The annual Christmas program at Rockwood Church will be presented by the Young Peoples' Department Sunday night at 8 o'clock. The pageant, "Longing For Christmas" portrays a home scene with the usual hurry-scurry in the average household at Christmas time, when the more important things are oftentimes neglected or pushed in the background. As the needs of the church, and the little poor boy with only his sick mother to provide Christmas for him, are presented, the family is made to realize the real meaning of Christmas.

The program is under the direction of Miss Melba Willis, assisted by Weaver Higgs.

The public is invited to attend. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Muench of Bainbridge, Ga., are expected this week to spend the holidays with friends.

Miss Barbara Carswell, student nurse at Vanderbilt University Hospital, is home to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Carswell.

The Wesleyan Service Guild will hold its regular meeting, and annual Christmas party tonight (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. Gladys Burrell. Several new hymnals have been purchased by the group, and will be presented to the church.

Gifts will be exchanged by members, and Mrs. Ray McDowell will
