1936 Kick Changed Rule

CHICAGO (AP) - Yale University has put another of its gridiron sors in the Football Hall of Fame by honoring Clinton E. Frank, quarterback and captain of Clint Frank still carries the 192 pounds he weighed when he played football at Yale from 1935; to the fall of 1937 when he was named All-American quarterback.

Frank was a junior on the 1936 squad when Larry Kelley, captain and end, received the John W. Heisman Memorial trophy from the Downtown A. C. of New York. Kelley, a senior, was also an Ali-American.

That season became memorable in gridiron circles because Kelley caused coaches and officials to scratch their heads in the Yale-Navy game, Frank recails.

A punt fell on Navy's 45-yard line when its receiver dropped the ball. Kelley, coming in for a tackle, attempted to make a running pickup but kicked the ball The pigskin sailed and rolled 41 vards and was downed by Kelley on Navy's 4-vard line. There was no rule preventing this, so the officials gave the ball to Yale on the

A hoot and a howl was raised by all of gridiron officialdom, A couple of years later the National Football Rules Committee changed the rule so that a free ball, when kicked, becomes a dead ball. Under today's rule Navy would have retained possession.

Kelley now is with a manufacturing firm in eastern Pennsylvania.

Frank, 41, now is a two-fisted business executive in Chicago and head of his own advertising firm. His team of 55 employees includes Mrs. Marciano Is Certain a line of busy stenographers, a hackfield of researchers and copy writers, and dependable ends in Rocky Had Quit For Keeps the art department.

Although Frank's office is on the top floor of the Merchandise Mart, he lives in no lvory tower. He has his fingers on the pulse of major advertising campaigns. The only similarity between his surroundings and the Ivy League is that he works at a mahogany stained desk and there's a carpet on the floor.

How does football of today compare with the game of 20 years

Frank says it's still a game of blocking an lackling and intelligent use of the head on the football field.

The T formation was first coming into use during Frank's football heyday. The single wing was the technique then.

"A 'lot of people might say there is a difference in the game, but I don't think there's a funda mental change. It's still a great game," says Frank, who lives in Winnetka, a suburb north of Chicago. He has five children, three girls and two boys, ranging in ages from 14 to 1

"Sounds like the odds on a football game. Doesn't it?" he says

Schedule For 1957

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)-Ond thing about Yale's 1957 football schedule of nine games is that it will meet all of its 1956 opponents in the same order next season. The Ivy League champions will play six home games, traveling only to Ithaca to meet Cornell, to Philadelphia to play Penn and to Princeton to face the Tigers.

More Time For Bowling

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) - An 18-team bowling league at the University of Rochester has discovered the easy way to keep up with its statistical chores - team averages and individual hantlicaps.

The league statistics are fed into the university's giant electronic computer, which grinds out a week's records in one minute. By hand, the job took a full day.

Clem Labine set a Brooklyn Dodger pitching record in 1956 by appearing in 62 games. He relieved 482 59 times and started games.
