Will Rogers Cagney, Sten At Duplin

Next Week's Attractions Bring Very Interesting Program With The New Double Act Playing Here For The First Time. Will Rogers' Greatest.

Show week at the Duplin will open with James Cagney in the "St. Louis 554" for Monday and Tuesday. In this thrilling picture Cagney will be supported by Patricia Ellis and Alan Jenkins.

Wednesday only will be seen the new Russian actress Anna Eten in "Nana."

Nana, the heroine of Emile Zola's famous novel, made a business out of love. And Anna Sten, in her American film debut, makes a business out of "Nana."

The photoplay that introduces Miss Sten represents a new record in care, time and money spent in preparation. Samuel Goldwyn was determined that he would know more about Miss Sten before she made her first picture than another producer would after her third. The first is all-important, he said. It must be good. So he waited and studied and prepared, and when Goldwyn was finished, Miss Sten began work in "Nana." Eighteen months and a small fortune were spent in getting ready.

The rise and fall of a notorious courtesan in the gay and colorful setting of Paris in 1780, forms the story of "Nana." Willard Mack and Harry Wagstaff Gribble wrote the screen play, basing their tale on the character and adventures of Zola's scarlet heroine.

Nana and her cronies, Satin and Mini, played by Mae Clarke and Muriel Kirkland, start off on their tour from the gutters and the hovels to the boulevards, the cafes and the music halls, when they are confronted by a fortunate accident which makes an actress out of the colorful Nana.

From backstage, Nana easily progresses to fame and riches; she has lovers by the score, victim of her voluptuous and irresistible charms. Old Greiner, dean of the Apollo and sponsor of Nana's career, impersonated by Richard Bennett, is badly hit, but finally regains his balance sufficiently to throw her back into the gutter.

It is with the a term, patrician Colonel Andre Muffat and his handsome young brother, whom she really loves, played by Lionel Atwill and Philip Homes, respectively, that Nana has her final affair before the drums roll to call them away to war with Russia.

Then, they called Paris "the city of light." Her new boulevards stretched out in every direction—the shining white face of the new Opera was a fresh delight to a happy, singing, carefree city, the pleasure capitol of the world. The music-halls rang with laughter and gaiety, and the people were hoarse from raucous song.

The picture which United Artists is releasing at the Duplin theatre presents an authentic revival of the can-can as it was danced in Paris to the horror of the contemporary blue-noses, and Miss Sten sings "That's Love," a caustic lament on love, written for her by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. Dorothy Arzner directed the photoplay.

For the Thursday and Friday showing the Duplin will bring to you the one and only Will Rogers in "Mr. Skitch." Playing with Will is Kazu Pitta. In this show you will see Will Rogers leave his home in the middle west to seek his fortunes in the West. And does he get it? Well, we'll wait for you to see for yourself. The manager of the Duplin says about this picture: "It is the best picture I ever saw Will Rogers in. I can personally guarantee a show that will please all."

For the Saturday showing the Duplin offer Ken Maynard in the "Santa Fe Trail."

Week Of Prayer And Self-Denial Jan. 20-27

PRESBYTERIANS PRACTICING WEEK OF PRAYER AND SELF-DENIAL

Throughout the bounds of the Southern Presbyterian Church, the week of January 20 to 27th is set aside as a week to study the great Mission movement of the church, to pray for that movement in a special prayer groups and to deny ones' self of some of the luxuries of life and give that money to the mission cause.

The Southern Presbyterian Church has mission work in six foreign countries which represents a vast investment on the part of the church for the saving of souls. She now has a total of 403 missionaries working in these countries and during the past year 8,333 souls were won for Christ. The Presbyterian Church has taken the responsibility of reaching 36,000,000 people in these six countries. Today we have 14 of our choice young people ready to go out in the foreign service as soon as funds are available, and 49 others are standing ready to be appointed to some mission service.

These special services are being held all over the Southland this week that the work may go on in a great way. Rev. C. Darby Fulton, D. D., who is the executive secretary of the Foreign Mission work says that the field is now ready for workers as never before and there is a challenge for every Christian to do his best to take advantage of this great opportunity. The people are dissatisfied with the old religion and are looking out for something new. Now is a wonderful time to substitute the Christian religion which satisfies for the heathen religion which does not. What a challenge! What will the answer be?
